INVESTIGATORS PLAN VIGOROUS QUIZ ON BONUS

Federal Agents, Police Seeking to Break Up Alleged Ring.

PAPERS OF VETERANS TAKEN BY SWINDLERS

Six Men Being Held Here as Operatives Check Up on Activities.

Federal investigators, marking time yesterday in their investigation of an alleged ring of "bonus operators" here, planned last night to launch an intensive investigation today to determine what part, if any, the six men now in custody may have had in the theft of a veteran's bonus papers and an alleged attempt to obtain a loan on them.

The six were arrested Saturday afternoon in a quiet raid staged on a rooming house on Pennsylvania avenue, near Second street northwest. They were booked at police headquarters on a technical charge of investigation and then were taken to various precinct station houses where they were questioned.

In this question, M. P. McInerney, special investigator for the Veterans' Bureau and Detective Sergeants Clarence Talley and William Messer participated. What they learned as a result of their interrogation of the men could not be ascertained. Inquirers were told that publication of the information in the hands of the investigators might hamper them.

Certificate Claimed Stolen.

The six arrested men gave their names as: Bernard Edward Lowry, 26 years old; Dewey Elwood Yerbey, 32 years old; George Dross, 31 years old; James Isaac Moore, 38 years old; Thomas Clayton Evans, 51 years old; and Joseph Frances Frye, 34 years old.

A bonus certificate, allegedly stolen from Michael J. Higgins, a veteran now in Old Point Comfort Hospital, at Old Point Comfort, Va., on which an attempt had been made, it was said, to have a loan of $214 granted by the Veterans' Bureau, led to the investigation which followed.

Two of the arrested men were formerly employed as orderlies in the hospital. They gave up their positions there last week and came to Washington shortly afterward.

Address Given as Washington.

Higgins' papers were made out so that the general delivery at the Washington City postoffice was given as the address to which the loan check should be sent. Detectives pointed out that inasmuch as Higgins was a patient at Old Point Comfort he could not very well appear here to get mail.

The probability that other bonus certificates may have been obtained, and an attempt made to float a loan on them, is one of the angles that will be gone into today.

Another question the bureau officials are seeking to answer is whether or not any loans have been made to men who had no business getting them. It was explained that this was entirely possible, since a discharge paper is all that is necessary to establish an identity.

Meantime, a search for another man and a missing suitcase is being made. This suitcase is believed to contain papers that would prove interesting to the Government agents.

Two Freight Riders Saved From Pipe Fall

Rescue Crew Works Frantically With Torches and Crowbars to Release Pair; Traffic on Michigan Avenue Stopped Two Hours.

Two freight riders were rescued from the crushing embrace of tons of iron pipe that settled upon them last night as they rode in a gondola car on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad spur near Michigan avenue.

While the rescuers fought frantically with acetylene torches and crowbars to release the men from the grip of the pipe, Father Michael, of the Order of St. Benedict, clambered to the side of the imprisoned men and gave them spiritual consolation.

The men were taken to Casualty Hospital after the Fire Rescue Squad had cut through the steel end of the car and pushed the heavy pipes off the men with crowbars. On the way to the hospital Father Michael baptized one of the victims.

The men are William F. Clark, white, 25, a discharged soldier, who was en route to his home in Stevenson, Ala., and Howard McIntyre, 25, colored, of McCarl, S. C.

They were making their way South by freight train and climbed aboard the freight 2 miles north of Washington. Each stood in a small space between the pipe shipment and the end of the car. As the train stopped with a jerk near Michigan avenue, the shipment shifted and crushed both of them against the side.

A hobo, who was in the same car, jumped clear of the train and shouted to trainmen. Then he disappeared. Meanwhile John G. Schulz, of 4206 Tenth street northeast, and John Maddox, of 3615 Thirty-first street, Mount Rainier, Md., heard the screams of the men and shouted the men's plight to the train crew.

Thomas H. Adkins, the engineer, of this city, and David Foster, the fire-summoned and reserves from the man, of Brunswick, Md., had police Tenth Precinct and additional men from the Traffic Bureau and the Eighth and Thirteenth Precincts held a crowd of more than 500 persons in check. Traffic was stopped for more than two hours on Michigan avenue.

The rescuers sent to the Bureau of Mines for a mobile derrick to use in lifting the heavy lengths of pipe off the men. A railroad derrick was summoned from Baltimore. All traffic was stopped on the railroad spur.

Boards were stretched from the men to an adjoining car and they rested their heads upon these while rescuers worked. Restoratives were

STIMSON PLANS REVIEW OF NEW RED RELATIONS

Secretary Will Advise Administration Upon Possible Change.

FIRST AIM WILL BE TO KEEP OPEN MIND

Grafton Rogers May Be Asked to Help in Study of Situation.

(Associated Press.)

A personal study of Russian affairs to formulate a definite policy toward that country for the Hoover administration will be undertaken shortly by Secretary Stimson.

The administration has been carrying on the Russian policy of former Secretaries Hughes and Kellogg. Secretary Stimson will review the entire problem to determine if there should be any change.

State Department officials said the Secretary's plan is to approach the subject with an open mind and first secure the background on the entire situation before mapping any policy.

It was said the Secretary would not establish a Russian division in the department. The present Eastern European division, in which Russian affairs are now handled, will cooperate with the Secretary.

Rogers May Give Aid.

To assist him directly, the Secretary will call upon one of the Assistant Secretaries, probably Grafton Rogers, the newly appointed assistant from Colorado, who has not yet taken office.

A department spokesman, on behalf of the Secretary, said Mr. Stimson, since taking office nearly two years ago, had devoted most of his time to problems of the other European countries, Latin America and the Far East, but had had little time to study the Russian question.

Hence, it was said, the previous policy had been carried on. Secretary Stimson has explained each time the question was brought up publicly that there had been no change from that followed since the Soviet overthrew the provisional government which followed the fall of the czar's regime.

The Hughes policy on recognition—the most important problem between the Soviet and the United States for solution—was based on three principles.

Propaganda Cessation Asked.

These were the cessation of Soviet propaganda in the United States, restoration of American property seized in the Soviet Republics and confiscated, and the meeting of repudiated international obligations.

This policy was pronounced by Mr. Hughes eight years ago when the Soviet foreign office in a cablegram direct to the White House attempted to open the negotiation question.

Trade relations between the two countries have been carried on, however, to the mutual advantage of each, despite the lack of diplomatic relations.

M'BRIDE RAPS RASKOB PLAN; LAUDS HOOVER

Chieftain of Antisaloon League Predicts Wet Issue Next Year.

RICH EASTERN MEN BLAMED FOR MOVE

Increase of 10 Drys in Next Senate Foreseen at Florida Session.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 8 (A.P.).—F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League of America, denounced the Raskob plan of State liquor control at the opening of the league's annual convention here today. He praised President Hoover's law enforcement stand, and predicted prohibition would be a leading issue in the 1932 presidential campaign.

"We will never submit to a bootleggers' government in this country, and will never surrender to the liquor interests," he declared, calling on the dry States to "organize and get the last vote in the ballot box."

Of the Raskob plan he said:

"The multimillionaires of the East are trying to get State control. They come forward now and tell the Southern States what they should do and offer State's rights."

Praise for Hoover.

"President Hoover," asserted Dr. McBride, "said more in the ten minutes following his oath of office and has stood by it more closely than any of the Presidents who have preceded him."

"It is now up to the law abiding people of the United States to block any movement for making the prohibition question one of State option," he added.

He predicted an increase of ten in the ranks of dry senators in the next Congress and decried prohibition conditions in Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey, saying it was the duty of the rest of the country to present a solid front for a change in those conditions.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, chairman of the Women's National Committee for Prohibition Enforcement, spoke on "Gossip, Incorporated," which she said was a national organization of liquor interests controlling a great portion of the press.

Gossip Is Attacked.

She charged that "organization" with "character assassination," referring to Bishop James Cannon, jr., as a victim of gossip.

"No one believes he (Bishop Cannon) is guilty of any crime," she said. "Their work is deliberate and it has even been directed against the President of the United States. Their idea is to smear Hoover.

"The President of the United States can not go out and deal with these gossipers, but we can do it by standing by him and for him when he is attacked."

Mrs. Peabody said the health records of twenty States in which no liquor

150 KILLED AS QUAKES ROCK BALKAN STATES; 13 DIE IN U. S. STORMS

Mad March Wind Moves Over Many Areas to Leave Suffering.

TUG WITH FOUR MEN ON BOARD IS MISSING

11 in Chicago and 2 Others in Wisconsin Reported Midwest Victims.

Chicago, March 8 (A.P.).—The Midwest floundered in snowdrifts today, the parting prank of a malicious winter.

A mad March storm which dumped its load over the Mississippi Valley States during Friday and Saturday moved East up the ice-bound Great Lakes and whistled out in harmless gusts.

It left behind at least thirteen deaths directly attributable to the bitter weather, and evoked an army of workers in a half-dozen States to revive a belt 400 miles wide from temporary inactivity.

Area Caught Unprepared.

A season stingy in rain and snow had left the area unprepared for the suddenness of the storm, and every form of transportation was caught up in the fierce whirl of gale winds and blinding snow.

Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan were beset from two directions. The storm on land was drowned in the roar of mountainous waves on Lake Michigan, which battered at the shoreline and forced ships to scurry into port. One tiny fishing tug, with four men aboard, has been missing in the wrack and foam since 1 o'clock yesterday, her fate unknown.

Thousands of automobiles, almost buried in drifts, were dotted over Illinois, southern Wisconsin and parts of Iowa, Missouri and Indiana today. Farmers gave shelter to motorists until plows could nose through the high-heaped snow. Passengers on motor buses found themselves marooned far from their destinations.

Trains Are Delayed.

Train service gradually returned to normal today, but yesterday at least four trains were held fast by drifts. Hundreds of linemen set out to repair snarled communication and power wires, ripped from their supports by the burdening snow and the violent wind.

Eleven of the thirteen reported deaths occurred in Chicago, the majority of them due to overexertion which brought on heart failure. The others were in southern Wisconsin.

The Chicago Loop was tied into a knot that did not begin to loosen until today. Fully 9,000 office workers spent the night in downtown hotels, while surface lines were blockaded and cars were abandoned in the shadow of skyscrapers.

Twenty thousand men — many of them unemployed workers—were detailed to clear tracks and streets. Milk companies took emergency measures to assure the city an adequate supply.

Snow Covers States.

Indiana was digging out today. Likewise northern Missouri, where 2 inches of snow covered the ground. In southern Iowa, there was from 8 to 10 inches. Southern Wisconsin was brushed by the gales which gave Illinois more than a foot of snow and the worst jam of the winter. Michigan felt only the after effects—snow, but little wind.

Though Lake Michigan subsided this morning, the drifting cakes were so thick that Coast Guard men at Kenosha, Wis., were unable to search for the tug Palmer, which carried four veteran lake sailors. Yesterday, the waves reared so high that a crack car ferry of the Pere Marquette Line, built to weather the worst storms, was unable to nose through the wide Milwaukee Harbor entrance and had to run all the way back to Ludington, Mich., after traveling nearly 80 miles.

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—Destruction amounting to thousands of dollars was wrought by a storm which

Plunge Into Windshield Cuts Man's Head Off

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 8.—Death by decapitation in a motor truck accident was reported here today from Gassaway, the victim being Brady Adkins, 33, driver for a Charleston transfer company. A slippery road caused the truck to skid into a pole at the intersection of the Clay and Charleston roads.

The truck was demolished and Adkins' head was entirely severed when he was hurled through the windshield. He leaves his widow and a 3-year-old child.

Alfonso's Daughter To Undergo Operation

Madrid, Spain, March 8 (A.P.).—Court circles revealed today that Infanta Christina, second daughter of the King and Queen of Spain, will be operated on for appendicitis tomorrow at the Red Cross Sanitarium, where she is a nurse.

Physicians said there is no cause for alarm.

HOOVER VISITS SON; STARTS FOR HOME

President and Wife Find Him Improved and Return After 9-Hour Stay.

Asheville, N. C., March 8 (A.P.).—President and Mrs. Hoover spent Sunday with their son, Herbert Hoover, jr., and were delighted to find him well on the way to recovery from the illness which caused him to come here for the winter. A hard snow was falling when they arrived here early today from Washington.

The visit took place in the privacy of Blue Briar Cottage where the younger Hoover, with his wife, has lived since ordered here in October to recuperate from incipient tuberculosis. Only the President, Mrs. Hoover, Herbert, jr., and his wife sat down to the simple luncheon served in the cottage dining room.

The only thing that saddened an otherwise completely joyful reunion was the fact that Herbert Hoover jr.'s three small children were at the White House and not in Blue Briar Cottage.

With important engagements awaiting him Monday the President entrained for the Capital shortly after 5 o'clock.

On the trip down and back, the President and Mrs. Hoover occupied a drawing room on a regular sleeping car attached to a scheduled train. It was the first time the Chief Executive has traveled other than on a private car since he came into office two years ago.

It was snowing hard when the train pulled into the Asheville station, but nevertheless a thousand or more persons were present to cheer. Smilingly acknowledging the applause, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover entered a White House car, sent down two days ago, and were driven through the city and up Sunset Mountain to Blue Briar.

The party had just reached the cottage when the snow stopped and the sun came out to give a view of the French Broad River Plateau and the great range of mountains to the southwest, dominated by Mount Pisgah. The mountains which surround Asheville were covered with snow.

After allowing the President his view, the snow began again and kept up intermittently throughout the day.

Capt. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, made the following statement after an examination of the President's son:

"I have not seen Herbert Hoover, jr., in several months until today. I do not see how he could have made more gratifying progress. His im-

900 Buildings Collapse and 500 Persons Said to Be Injured.

TERRIFIED CITIZENS FLEE FROM HOMES

Many Facing Extreme Cold With Little Clothing; Rains Add Danger.

(Associated Press.)

The elements in all their fury beat across sea and land yesterday, earthquakes and storms bringing death to 165 and injuries to several hundred others. Of these, 150 were reported quake victims.

Earth shocks spread death and destruction in the Balkan states. In the United States violent rain and snow storms worked their toll of life and property over nearly the entire area of the Atlantic seaboard and far into the West.

Snow blew into the Southland over the week-end, in Georgia, Kentucky, North Carolina and Eastern Tennessee. The storm was not accompanied by sufficient cold to keep the snow, however, the flakes melting almost as soon as they reached the ground, averting the threat of ice on the Gulf Coast.

150 Killed, 500 Hurt.

London, March 8 (A.P.).—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch today said it was learned from Zagred, Jugoslavia, that 150 persons were killed and 500 injured by earthquakes yesterday and today in southern Jugoslavia, where 900 buildings were destroyed.

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, March 8 (A.P.).—A series of earthquakes in Jugoslavia and other Balkan states the past two days was reported officially tonight to have caused 80 deaths and injuries to hundreds of persons.

It is generally believed the total fatalities will be nearer 150 after reports are received from several points where communication has been disrupted. Some 900 buildings have collapsed and 500 persons were unofficially reported injured.

The shocks, which threw thousands of persons into a panic, extended from Bulgaria to the Black Sea. The seismograph here registered the epicenter of today's two shocks, which started at 4 o'clock this morning, as about 900 miles from Belgrade.

Facing Extreme Cold.

At several places the terrified residents stampeded from their homes, many facing the extreme cold with little clothing. At Pirava not one building was spared and many persons were injured.

King Alexander left today with Gen. Zivkovitch, the prime minister, to superintend personally relief for sufferers in the south, where the greatest damage was wrought. The Red Cross at Skoplje was organizing its forces to care for the injured and homeless.

In Bulgaria various localities reported walls damaged and chimneys thrown down today.

Reports from Istanbul said the earthquakes were felt in eastern Thrace and Adrianople. The dispatch did not mention any casualties there.

Residents Flee Homes.

Dispatches from Skoplje said the unfortunate inhabitants of that region who escaped injury ran from their crumpled homes, while those whose dwellings still stood refused to enter them for fear of other shocks. Torrents of rain added to the suffering.

The bridge over the Varda collapsed with the tremors, thus cutting of Skoplje from Guevgeli. In this last neighborhood alone one village has 29 dead and 22 injured.

Railroads running along the Greek border appeared to have suffered greatly and the station at Demirkapu was razed. The famous Simplon express had not arrived in Belgrade at 11 o'clock tonight, being long overdue.

Relief Work Starts.

Much relief work has already been begun. Trains left Skoplje and other

NEW HOLDING FIRM FOR GAS IN CAPITAL

Washington and Suburban Companies Will Issue $6,500,000 Bonds.

The holding corporation which more than a year ago bought out control of the Washington Gas Light Co. today assumes a new name, becoming the Washington and Suburban Co. under a financing announcement made in New oYrk yesterday.

The stock of the local companies, originally acquired under the name of the Seaboard Investment Trust, will be covered by an issue of $6,500,000 in 5½ per cent collateral trust gold bonds, counsel for the corporation explained here last night.

The change in name is the only significance attached to the new issue, Wilton J. Lambert, attorney for the Washington aGs Light Co., said. He said the issue, representing securities not only in the Washington concern, but the Alexandria Gas Co., and other suburban property, "offers a more comprehensive investment."

George A. G. Wood, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., said he did not expect the new financing to affect in any way the operation of the Washington company.

"It is largely a legal situation," he said. "It does not concern us. We are going along just as we always have."

He added that he had not been consulted about the issue, which Mr. Lambert said is back by the same group of Boston bankers, headed by Harris, Forbes & Co., that were behind the Seaboard Investment Trust.

The $6,500,000 bond issue announced yesterday is due in 1941. The bonds are priced at 97 with interest to yield over 5.90 per cent, according to the announcement.

Washington & Suburban Companies owns about 84 per cent of the common stock of the Washington Gas Light Co., and the entire capitalizations of Alexandria Gas Co. and Washington Suburban Gas Co.

POLICE CLAIM YOUTH ADMITS FIRING BARN

Arson Charges Looming for Melvin Wheeler, 14, of Colesville Pike.

Arson charges loom against a 14-year-old Colesville youth who yesterday broke down under grilling and admitted, according to his police inquisitor, to firing a barn which caused $10,000 damage at his home Saturday night and to two other fires in the neighborhood within the last two years.

He is Melvin Wheeler, son of Harry K. Wheeler, on whose farm, 1 mile south of Colesville, on the pike of the same name, a blaze of suspected incendiary origin destroyed a horse barn, then leveled a nearby cow barn and grain silo. Firemen from the Sandy Spring, Silver Spring and Kensington departments responded.

The boy's story that he was slashed across the stomach by a Negro he surprised in the act of setting the fire aroused the doubts of Sergt. Guy L. Jones, of the Silver Spring substation, Montgomery County police. Sergt. Jones yesterday grilled the youth, told him the story was "too perfect" and that a 4-inch knife cut in the clothes should have produced on the boy's stomach more than a faint scratch.

He said the boy confessed to the act, explaining that he "liked to see the fire engines run." Young Wheeler, he continued, told him that he set fire to the barn earlier in the day, but that his uncle, Philip Love, and some farm hands extinguished it.

Sergt. Jones charges that the boy admitted that he set fire to an old empty house near his own home in the summer of 1929, and that it was destroyed. He added that the boy also volunteered the statement of having destroyed by fire another house nearby last summer.

The youth was released in custody of his father pending arraignment in Juvenile Court in Rockville on charges Sargt. Jones said probably would be filed today by State's Attorney Stedman Prescott.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

The special commission selected from members of the Cabinet, Senate and House to present a plan for equalizing the burdens of war has an intricate and difficult problem. Every one would like to see some policy adopted to prevent one portion of our people from profiteering while another portion is bearing arms.

But a complete equalization of rewards or sacrifices either in war or peace time has always been impossible. Only a small portion of our man power can be drafted without a complete breaking down of the economic system. The same is true of property. Taking too much at once would so impair the remainder that the country would be defenseless.

High taxes during the war were a draft of wealth. That will go on for generations. Much of it will go to veterans. Much wealth that is intangible, like the necessary credit structure, can not be seized. The Soviets seized everything in Russia from the throne down, destroyed credit and produced universal bankruptcy. Physical properties are useless without the intelligence to operate them. It will be difficult to conscript the mind.

While increase in prices may be necessary to stimulate war production surely some plan can be found to curb abuses.

Soviet and Turkey Sign Skip Pact in Black Sea

Moscow, March 8 (A.P.).—The signing of an agreement between the Soviet Union and Turkey on naval construction in the Black Sea was officially announced today. According to the terms, each country must notify the other six months in advance when it intends to build a warship.

The accord must be ratified by each government. It will be known as the second protocol to the treaty signed by the Soviet Union and Turkey.

3 Youths Killed, 2 Hurt In Louisiana Accident

Minden, La., March 8 (A.P.).—Three youths were killed and two others seriously injured when an automobile plunged through a railroad overpass bridge near here late last night.

The dead: Homer Brumbley, 18, and Alvin Hortman, 22, both of Hortman, La., and Huson Foley, 17, of Coushwood, La. Malcom Smith, 17, of Hortman, driver of the car, and Huis Gilbert, 17, of Hortman, were injured.

U. S. Inquiry Attacked By Premier of Soviet

Charges of Dumping and Forced Labor Are Hotly Denied.

Moscow, March 8 (A.P.).—The sixth All-Union Soviet Congress convened today with Premier Vyacheslaff Molotoff making a violent attack on the United States and other capitalistic countries in his maiden speech.

He challenged the rest of the world on economic prosperity, denounced charges of dumping and forced labor and declared the American "foolish Fish bill"—framed by Representative Hamilton Fish, jr., after a congressional investigation into communistic activities—undoubtedly would affect trade relations between the two countries.

"America must remember," he declared, "that the imports of the Union of Socialist of Soviet Republics depend upon her exports."

The grand opera house was crowded with 1,479 delegates fro mall parts of the Soviet Union attending, and with Joseph Stalin, K. E. Voroschiloff, Michael Kalinin and other communistic chieftains sitting in the presidium on the stage.

When Stalin's name was read as a member of the presidium, the audience rose and cheered him for nearly five minutes with shouts of "Long live Stalin!" The Communist leader appeared somewhat worn by the strain of work and stood with head bowed during the shouting. He finally brought the cheering to a finish by sitting down.

Stalin seemed in god humor despite the fact his face showed signs of strain, for he, Kalinin and Voroshiloff shook with silent laughter when one told a joke during Molotoff's long speech.

Molotoff, who is president of the council of people's commissars, and thus is the equivalent of a premier in Moscow, dwelt on the economic crisis throughout the world and called the attention of the delegates to a statement by an American senator that "a thousand persons are starving to death daily in the United States."

He asked the delegates to compare this situation to that in the U. S. S. R., where he said there was no unemployment and no starvation.

"The crisis in capitalist countries is not decreasing, but increasing," he

Gordon Tragedy Enmeshes Brother, Who Has Collapsed

Pierre Franklin Sent to Bellevue Hospital After Terrific Struggle; Magistrate Renaud Under Fire; Seabury Named Special Commissioner.

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—On the life sheet of the family of Vivian Gordon, strangled Broadway butterfly, fate today added "nervous collapse" to the entries of "murder" and "suicide." For today Pierre Franklin, of Montreal, Vivian's brother and uncle of the self-slain Benita Bischoff, was carried from his hotel to Bellevue Hospital, strapped to stretcher, after a terrific struggle.

Hotel employes and a nurse who had struggled with Franklin for hours before police were called said he was suffering from "nervous collapse."

Eleven days ago his sister, Born Benita Franklin, was stranged and her body tossed into a gutter in Van Cortlandt Park. Two days later, her daughter, Benita Bischoff, ended her life with gas through shame over revelations that followed upon the mother's death.

Saturday, at the funeral of Vivian, whom he saved from burial in Pot-

Widow, Named in Suicide's Note, Claims His Daughter

Mrs. Margaret Featherstone, Former Fiancee, Says She Will Care for Miss Rita Shire, 17, Whose Father Killed Himself in Capital.

Chicago, March 8 (A.P.).—Mrs. Margaret Featherstone, a widow, came forward today to identify herself as the "Margaret" named in the death note left by Leo D. Shire, Marshall, Mich., traveling salesman, who killed himself last Tuesday in Washington.

Part of Mr. Shire's last message, addressed to Rita Shire, his 17-year-old daughter, said: "Rita, Margaret is your mother."

A ther hotel, with Rita, here from Sherman, Tex., for the funeral of her father, Mrs. Featherstone said she had been engaged to marry Mr. Shire, and the ceremony was planned to take place as soon as he recovered from an attack of influenza.

"He was devoted to Rita, and I had promised him that if anything ever happened to him I would care for her as if she were my own daughter," she said. "And I intend to do so. After the funeral, Rita will go back to school at Sherman, and during the vacations and after she finishes school she will make her home with me."

centers tonight, carrying physicians, supplies, blankets, stoves and food.

Before King Alexander left for the scene of the disaster he ordered that all soldiers garrisoned in the stricken regions be permitted to hasten to their homes so that they could find out about their families.

Athens, Greece, March 8 (A.P.).—Seventy houses were wrecked by earth shocks which struck the frontier between Greece and Jugoslavia at 4 this morning. Most of the destroyed houses were in the region of the Greek village, Kavallion.

Two Children Killed.

Sofia, Bulgaria, March 8 (A.P.).—Two children were killed and considerable damage was done by two prolonged earthquakes which shook most of the Balkan States today. In Sofia many persons were stampeded in great excitement into the icy streets in a fear their houses would topple. In the region of Drama the population spent the day in a state of terror.

Various localities reported chimneys had been shaken down and walls cracked. The disturbance was weakest in the southwest, notably in Bulgarian Macedonia.

The two children were killed in the town of Leski, where two adults also were injured by falling walls. Houses likewise were destroyed in Nevrokop.

Similar disturbance yesterday caused extensive damage in Serbia and buried a shepherd and all but six of his flock of 200 in a mountain slide.

Felt Throughout Bulgaria.

The epicenter of today's quakes which started at 4 o'clock this morning and came at an interval of one minute, was officially placed in the direction of Drama, but it was felt throughout Bulgaria and to the Black Sea.

Istanbul, Turkey, March 8 (A.P.).—Two sharp earthquakes were recorded in eastern Thrace and Adrianople this morning. No damage was reported.

Virtually all Macedonia has been shaken by a series of tremors during the past 48 hours.

London, March 8 (A.P.).—A belated winter storm with snow and icy gales held Europe in its grip over the week-end. Surrounding waters were lashed to a fury with resultant damage to small shipping.

Nature also chose this moment to stage violent earth shocks with their center in the Balkins, where many were killed, several hundred persons injured and considerable property damage was done by the tremors.

Waves Pound Coast.

Great Britain had the coldest weather of the year, with snow in many places. Eastern Scotland was covered with the deepest snow in years. Sheep farmers there have lost half of the season's yield of lambs.

Northeastern England also experienced heavy snows and several villages were cut off.

High tides and great waves pounded the coast and at some points cellars were filled with flood waters.

In the North Sea the steamer Tern was sunk after a collision with the steamer City of Malines. Her crew of sixteen was saved. Fishing fleets were held in port and Atlantic liners were delayed.

All Austria was under snow which fell for 46 hours without stopping. Zero temperatures accompanied the storm.

The River Seine, in France, rose so high the valley above Paris was flooded and evacuation of the low-lying suburbs of the capital was a possibility. In the provinces where snow fell the Meuse, Loire, Allier and Rhone overflowed their banks. Rising waters of the Marne and Yonne, which are tributaries of the Seine, were halted temporarily, but further snow was forecast for tomorrow.

70 Houses Destroyed.

Midwinter weather was general throughout the Balkan States, where the earth shocks occurred yesterday and again early today. Seventy houses were destroyed on the Greek-Jugoslavian frontier.

The epicenter was reported in the region of Drama but the disturbances were felt through all Bulgaria and to the Black Sea.

Germany suffered extreme cold and there were snowstorms in the Rhine Valley, the Black Forest, the Bavarian Mountains and other districts.

MAD MARCH WIND MOVES ACROSS U. S.

struck New York and New Jersey today. Two persons were killed and many were injured in automobile accidents caused by the severe weather.

Rain and high tides on a 40-mile gale flooded some waterfront points to a depth of several feet.

200 Children Endangered.

Flooded tracks stalled two trains of the Pennsylvania Railroad for several hours between Perth Amboy and Morgan, N. J.

The wind ripped roofs from buildings. Telephone and telegraph lines were blown down and trees broken off. About 200 children were endangered when the gale tore off part of the roof of a Bronx church.

Some Staten Island streets were flooded to a depth of six feet. A bungalow colony of 50 families was marooned on the island's south beach by high tides. Families at other points were forced to leave their flooded homes.

Snow Falls in Dixie.

Atlanta, March 8 (A.P.).—A remnant of the mad march blizzard from the Plains States blew into Dixie during the week-end, covering a few areas in belated snow blankets, bringing flurries of sweiftly melting flakes to other points and threatening ice on the Gulf Coast.

Blustering winds shepherded the snowflakes in most sections. Fruit and truck growers looked to the winds and the clouds that generally accompanied falling temperatures, to save crops.

Only in Kentucky, the mountains of western Virginia and North Carolina, and in eastern Tennessee was enough snow to cover the graund reported. In many other sections, including Atlanta and extending to western Alabama, light flakes fell, but generally melted before they struck the ground.

The Weather Bureau here said little change from today's weather was anticipated for tomorrow. Some far Southern areas expected colder weather.

Florida Mercury Drops.

Except for far northwestern areas, Florida appeared to have missed the cold wave, though temperatures in the southern part of the State were dropping. Tampa had 58 late today, and Miami 70, both unofficial. The Atlanta Weather Bureau said light frost was possible in northwestern Florida, but no serious damage was in prospect.

Snow cancelled air mail flights in the Atlanta-Chicago route, and delays on the Atlanta-New York line were caused by wind and snow.

Toronto, March 8 (U.P.).—Eight inches of snow in Toronto, with drifts six feet high in the country, obstructed traffic throughout Ontario today. The Toronto transportation system was crippled, with 1,000 men at work trying to dig out buried switches and tracks.

Country roads were practically impassable.

180,000,000 ACRES URGED FOR RELEASE

President's Group Advises Transfer of Lands to Western States.

(United Press.)

A comprehensive plan for relinquishment by the Federal Government of 180,000,000 acres of land, a tract as large as Central Europe, was embodied in a report of one of President Hoover's first commissions, made public last night.

The Committee on the Conservation and Administration of the Public Domain recommended legislation to turn over all this land to the 22 Western States in which it is located. The hope was expressed in the report that this land would be transferred ultimately to private ownership as rapidly as possible. The States would be expected to offer inducements for its purchase by private interests.

Acceptance Is Optional.

However, the States would not be required to accept the Federal property unless they so desired; an act of the State Legislature would be necessary to consummate the transfer.

The report was drawn after eighteen months of investigation. James R. Garfield, former Interior Secretary and chairman of the commission, said in a statement last night that the report was designed to enable drafting of legislation to take care of this long-standing problem. Dr. Elwood Mead, Reclamation Bureau Commissioner and another member, said his bureau approved the report. Dr. Mead especially praised the commission's recommendation for using electric power revenues to pay off the cost of water developments.

The commission of eighteen also included Mary Roberts Rinehart, novelist, former Senator H. O. Bursum, of New Mexico, and George Horace Lorimer, editor of the Saturday Evening Post.

Five Points Stressed.

Five major points were stressed in the report. They were:

1. Transfer of the vacant, unreserved public lands under a ten-year program.

2. Use and conservation of water resources on the land, particularly for flood control and reclamation.

3. Conservation by the Government of the subsurface minerals known to exist, but transfer of subsequent mineral rights to the States.

4. Conservation of timber resources in national forests, with recommendations for additions to the existing forest tracts.

5. Changes in administration which might produce greater efficiency in the conservation and use of the natural resources of the Nation.

Specific reservations were made in the case of known mineral lands. Nonmineral tracts would be transferred to the States in fee simple, but in the case of mineral lands, the Federal Government would reserve the right to all minerals known to exist at the time of clear listing. Any minerals not then known to be present, but later discovered, would be the property of the States.

Fee Simple Transfer.

Transfer of such mineral lands would be in fee simple, but with the above stated reservations, including "reservation in the United States, its permittees, lessees, or grantees, of the right to enter upon the land to prospect for, mine, and remove such minerals."

The Boulder Dam project was accepted as a model for future flood-control plans. The problem of disposition of hydroelectric power thus generated was mentioned but briefly, as follows:

"As an incident to flood-control projects, the generation of power and the development of water for irrigation can be made to pay their part, but the frequent practice of the past of loading all the costs upon the shoulders of the landowner is inequitable and should be discontinued.

Boulder Dam Is Cited.

"Recognition of that principle appears in the Boulder Dam project act." Various details of arrangements for transfer were suggested. The report recommended that any land refused by the States be turned into a national range, subject to grazing research and range improvement, as well as disposition of receipts, homestead provisions and the prospecting for and utilization of minerals.

Inclusion of such tracts in the national range would be made upon application of the State land commissioner, under authorization of the Legislature. In the absence of such legislation and formal application at the end of ten years, the President would be authorized to establish the national range in such States by executive order.

In the case of lands specifically reserved to the Federal Government for such purposes as national forests, reclamation, national parks and migratory bird refuges, the Government would have authority to make exchanges with States or private owners for purposes of consolidation.

Full Hearings Provided.

No such exchanges could be made without full hearings, and consideration would be given to those who have been using the land for many years.

In the administration of the lands, the Government and the States would be required to "perpetuate the best interests of the live stock industry." Location and protection of stock driveways would be given immediate consideration, and pending determination of how much of this land is to be given to the States, the Government is asked to cooperate with stock raisers' associations as to use, location and policing.

The present ratio of Federal participation in highway construction is recommended continued for ten years. Congress is asked to provide sufficient funds for a survey by the General Land Office of unsurveyed lands. A board would be created in the Interior Department to arrange and administer transfer of the land.

Captain Reports Ship Missed Big Storms

New York, March 8 (U.P.).—Capt. K. S. Irgens, master of the liner Stavangerfjord, brought his ship serenely across the Atlantic in "perfect weather" and without a quiver, despite the fact that bitter storms thundered to the right and left of him.

Not until he hit Quarantine today did Capt. Irgens suffer any discomfort, and that was when he sailed into the tail of the northeaster that was ravaging the coast.

All about him the skipper was receiving reports from other vessels of heavy weather and hard going. But all was calm, wherever he steered the Stavangerfjord.

MT. PLEASANT AREA WATERLESS ALL DAY

Burst in Main Jams Traffic, Damages Property and Causes Bus Rerouting.

Sudden bursting of a large water main about 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning at Thirteenth street and Park road northwest flooded basements, cut off the water supply over a wide residential area for fifteen hours, and sent a miniature river coursing to block traffic and cause minor property damage.

Tenth Precinct police were besieged with telephone calls on the heels of the first report from Mrs. E. H. Snead, resident of a house at the broken main, who was awakened by a muffled roar as a geyser suddenly broke the silence and simmered down quickly into a torrent pouring steadily from the gaping hole.

District Water Department men started work that continued until about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The accident entirely cut off the populated residential area bounded water supply in the large and densely on the north by Monroe street, on the west by Fourteenth street, on the south by Clifton street and on the east by Eleventh street.

All the Mount Pleasant section was reduced to a drastically curtailed supply until late afternoon. Traffic was impeded by the flowing water and buses over the affected corner were rerouted for hours through Lamont street to Eleventh street and back to Park road.

At times the streets in the vicinity of the break were under a foot of water, wit hsewers operating to capacity to drain the sudden overflow. Police were stationed at several corners to direct traffic and to keep out of danger many pedestrians who were attracted to the scene as the news quickly spread.

The water department ascribed the accident to an erosion of a rusty main.

TWO FREIGHT RIDERS RESCUED FROM PIPE

administered by Dr. A. S. Grosberg, of Casualty Hospital.

Hundreds Line Tracks.

The sputtering blue flame of the electric torches lit up the agonized faces of the victims for the hundreds that lined the tracks on either side of the train. Battalion Chief Charles W. Gill and Fire Chief George W. Watson ordered the rescue squad to cut through the rear panel of the car.

A touch of grim humor was offered by McIntyre, who, in the throes of pain, began to sing "Alabama" as the torch lights burned through the steel a foot from his body.

Fearing further shifting of the pipe, the tracks near the car were cleared. The rescuers kept clear of the line of fall in case the pipe should again move. Father Michael, oblivious of the peril, clambered next to McIntyre, who was in danger of bleeding to death from deep lacerations on his legs.

The man asked to be baptized and Father Michael sent to his room in Catholic University for holy water and the oils for administration of extreme unction in case the man should die before the rescuers succeeded. Then he moved over the train to Clark, whose groans sounded through the clash of crowbar and hoarse orders.

Two Hours Required.

After two hours the flame of the torch sputtered and died and the recuers threw all their weight into the crowbars which bent the end of the car and pried the men loose. Each was hoisted from the gondola, placed on a stretcher and moved to Casualty Hospital.

Father Michael stayed with the men. Loss fo blood caused fear for the life of McIntyre and Father Michael administered conditional baptism while in the ambulance.

Clark told Sergt. Cyrus E. Perry and Father Michael he had recently discharged from the army after sixteen months' service in Central America. He was en route to his home in Alabama, where his wife, child and two stepchildren were making their home.

The pipe was a consignment from the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., of Youngstown, Ohio, for delivery to the Potomac Yards.

M'BRIDE ATTACKS RASKOB PROPOSAL

permits are issued are the best in the United States.

"If we lift the prohibition against alcohol we might as well lift it against opium and then tell people they don't have to obey the Ten Commandments," she said. "When they do that I am going to Russia."

Movies Used, Charge.

She moved from Massachusetts to Florida on account of the prohibition attitude of her former home State.

O. G. Christgau, of Washington, secretary to the general superintendent, charged wet leaders have employed the movies and radio for the dissemination of propaganda.

He said the National Women's Association for Prohibition Reform might as well call itself "wet women."

The convention will continue through Wednesday.

(Associated Press.)

The eagerness of some Republican drys to capitalize the Democratic division over prohibition as the major 1932 campaign issue yesterday met a challenge from Representative LaGuardia for a preconvention stand on the liquor question.

Warning that a dry candidate may lose 138 electoral votes in addition to the solid South to a Democratic anti-prohibitionist, Mr. LaGuardia demanded open discussion of the question by a special meeting of the Republican national committee.

Republicans Are Warned.

"Republican leaders rather than chuckle over the apparent division in the Democratic ranks had better take inventory in their own party," said Mr. LaGuardia, an antiprohibitionist. "It would seem to me that the least they can do is to call the national committee together and take up the prohibition question."

Praising the courage of Democrats in openly meeting this issue, the New Yorker added: "Voters are entitled to know just how the parties will stand on the prohibition issue in 1932.

"There is a determined movement within the ranks of the Republican party to vote wet in 1932 if the party refuses to meet the situation and fails to present a plank which will end the present farce of prohibition and its many vicious ramifications.

"If the Republicans had the vision and good sense to declare that which they know to be a fact, they will meet the situation. Republicans in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Ohio and Illinois will not sacrifice a principle for party expediency in 1932. The Republican party can not win without these States."

Dewey Cites Breakdown.

Meanwhile, Prof. John Dewey, of New York, who asked Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, to form a third party, said in a statement the recent session of Congress was "the best possible evidence of the breakdown of the present economic-political system."

"More progressive tactics must be pursued by those who claim to be progressive if they expect to retain the support of the rank and file of progressives off the Government pay roll," he added.

Senator Norris, a leader of the progressives backing the forthcoming conference, declined to head a third party. It has been emphasized that such action will not be discussed at the conference.

LaGuardia has announced he will be present.

Morrow Winner Wet, Dry or Drunk, Wilson Says

Asbury Park, N. J., March 8 (A.P.).—Dr. Clarence True Wilson said today a wet candidate for President on either major political party would be sure of defeat in 1932. He is general secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, and spoke before the New Jersey Methodist Conference.

He predicted that President Hoover would be reelected if the Democrats name Roosevelt, but that, a Democratic victory is possible "if the party behaves itself."

He condemned John J. Raskob for his efforts to commit the Democratic party to a wet platform and also flayed attackers of the Wickersham report and Judge Clark, of New Jersey, who recently ruled the eighteenth amendment unconstitutional.

"Senator Morrow," Dr. Wilson said, "got the impression he had to be wet to get into the Senate. He could have been elected wet, dry or drunk. The people wanted Lindbergh's father-in-law. * * * Senator Morrow is the best and cleanest senator we have had from New Jersey."

6 Shotgun Bandits Rob Tea Diners of $3,000

Westville, N. J., March 8.—(A.P.).—Six men armed with sawed-off shotguns held up the Maple Shade tearoom, South Westville, today, lined twelve patrons and the proprietor against the wall and escaped with money and jewelry valued by police at $3,000.

ALCOHOL PRODUCER SHOWS 1930 LOSS

American Solvents Corp. Lists Drop of $870,053 in Yearly Profits.

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—The American Solvents & Chemical Corporation, large producer and distributor of commercial alcohol and also engaged in the manufacture of chemical products, reported for 1930 net loss of $870,053.

The report covered operations of the parent company and its newly acquired subsidiaries, Rossville Commercial Alcohol Corporation and General Industrial Alcohol Corporation, since the date of their acquisition June, 1930. At the time of the merger, a reserve of $1,500,000 was set up to cover adjustments in connection with the consolidation of properties. The report shows that of this special reserve all but $4,833 was used. Because of the consolidation comparison with the previous year is not available.

The balance sheet as of December 31 showed current assets of $4,634,785, against current liabilities of $1,888,785. In his report to stockholders, H. I. Peffer, chairman, said the company entered 1931 "with a clean slate."

Ulen & Co., international engineers and financiers, reported for 1930 net income of $1,040,529, equal to $3.07 a common share, against $1,327,426, or $3.81 a share in 1929.

Train Crash Ends In $100,000 Blaze

2 Cars Hurtle Into Building Alongside Ohio Tracks, Starting Fire.

Salineville, Ohio, March 8 (A.P.).—Twenty box cars were derailed and damaged and two two-story brick and frame buildings alongside the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks were destroyed when two cars hurtled into the basement of one of the buildings and upset a coal stove early today. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

A west-bound train of 90 cars broke in the middle and buckled, throwing several cars in the path of an east-bound 115-car freight trani. Two of the cars careened into the basement of a building.

HOOVER SEES SON AND RETURNS HOME

provement is very definite and there is every indication he is on the road to a permanent cure.

"His convalescence, of course, has to be very guarded, and the care at this stage must be just as careful as during the last four months."

The question of whether he will remain in Asheville after May 1, when the lease expires on Blue Briar cottage, is a purely domestic question, which will be left up to the young couple, Capt. Boone said.

Needs Plenty of Rest.

The remainder of the convalescence is a matter of rest, and he feels this can be accomplished either here or in California.

Dr. Bernard Smith, Asheville physician who has attended young Hoover, described the case as an "arrested" one. His patient, he said, now weighs 147 pounds, a gain of about fifteen pounds since the illness first was diagnosed.

Another crowd gathered at the station to cheer Mr. and Mrs. Hoover as they left, and at each station along the line crowds gathered, hoping for a glimpse of the Chief Executive.

Accompanying the President were Lawrence Richey, one of his secretaries; Dr. Boone and a group of newspapermen and photographers. Miss Ruth Fessler, one of Mrs. Hoover's social secretaries, was the only other member of the official party.

Mr. Hoover had hoped to stay two days in Asheville instead of nine hours. He told members of his party he was especially regretful, after seeing Asheville and its surroundings, that engagements forced him to go back to Washington.

Hoover Seems Pleased.

Dr. Boone said the Chief Executive was unusually pleased with the surroundings in which his son was convalescing, and was "tremendously cheered" by the progress he had made since coming here.

Asheville officials, respecting the President's wish that as little attention be paid him as possible, saw to it that no one disturbed the family gathering. Policemen guarded the one road up Sunset Mountain and the only demonstrations were when the President arrived and left.

Mayor Harry P. Lummer, on behalf of Asheville, welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Hoover when they left the train in the morning, and then immediately retired into the background.

LEAGUE FILES BRIEF IN NEW RIVER CASE

Director Contends Commission Should Take Jurisdiction Over Stream.

(Associated Press.)

Judson King, director of the National Popular Government League, yesterday filed a brief with the Power Commission contending it should assume jurisdiction over the New River in Virginia.

The brief opposed the claim of the Appalachian Electric Power Co., supported by Virginia, West Virginia, Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky, that the Power Commission lacked authority over the stream, a non-navigable.

The company and States argued that if the Federal Group claimed jurisdiction, any license it issued to the company for developing a proposed $11,000,000 plant near Radford, should be modified and designed only to protect navigation on the Kanawha, into which New River discharges.

King contended the license sought by the Appalachian company was "in gross violation of the letter and spirit of the Federal water power act, and constitutes an attempt to set a precedent adverse to the interests of the people of Virginia and the entire United States.

"A standard major license for the use of this enormously valuable property will yield to this company every financial advantage to which it is entitled in justice and in law, he added.

"Under it the trust can not lawfully impose upon the project millions of dollars of inflated securities on which the people must pay dividends for half a century and then be included in the price which the Federal Government or the State of Virginia must pay to recapture their own property."

Gale Halts Trip Of Rocket Sled

Inventor Waits Weather to Drive Vehicle Across Oneida Lake.

Syracuse, N. Y., March 8 (A.P.).—A gale sweeping across Oneida Lake today prevented a second attempt to try out the first rocket sled ever built in America. Harry Bull, of this city, a student at Syracuse University, who designed and built the craft, hopes weather conditions will permit the trial to take place tomorrow.

First tests scheduled for yesterday failed when a short circuit prevented the rockets from exploding. Bull worked far into the night and several hours today rewiring the boat, installing more powerful batteries and more sensitive fuses.

Bull expects the 36 rockets exploded at intervals will propel the sled at a rate of 20 feet a second for 1,600 feet.

Billy Sunday Hits Reds in Sermon

Los Angeles, March 8.—Billy Sunday socked Communism squarely on its chin in the course of a fiery sermon at the Philharmonic Auditorium. The evangelist, in Los Angeles for only a few hours, was speaking under the auspices of the Temple Baptist Church at the request of the Rev. John Snape. He was accompanied by "Ma" Sunday, who occupied a seat on the stage, almost within reach of her husband's active elbow.

"No man has the right to wave a red flag in the United States!" thundered the two-fisted preacher. "If he doesn't like things as he finds them in the United States let him go back to Russia, or whereever he came from! Boats are sailing every day, and the sooner these agitators leave our shores the better!

California Town Named 'Chicago'

Citizens of Bay Point Make Change Despite Protest of Business Men.

Chicago, Calif., March 8.—"Bay Point is dead! Long live Chicago!"

While citizens of this town were shouting this slogan here the General Chemical Co., operators of a plant at Nichols, 3 miles from here, and a factory and general office at Chicago, Ill., protested to Gov. Rolph against the change of name. The company asserted that great confusion would result and urged the governor to take some steps to stop the scheduled city burial and christening.

Gov. Rolph turned the letter over to Postmaster Todd of San Francisco because all changes in names of cities and towns must be registered with the Postoffice Department. Later it was announced that the Postmaster General in Washingon stated he would not sanction such a change because it would lead to considerable confusion in the delivery of mail.

Throughout the day merchants busied themselves with painting out and tearing down old signs containing the name "Bay Point" and substituting the new name.

Decrease in Horses Hurts Feed Market

(Associated Press.)

The decline of the Nation's horse population may be classed as one reason for farmers' marketing woes.

In thirteen years horses have decreased by 40 per cent, from 21,555,000 in 1918 to 12,863,000 in 1931.

The feed that 9,000,000 horses consumed thirteen years ago now must be marketed in other ways.

The Best Advertisement

The best advertisement sticks to the facts and leaves fiction in the capable hands of novelists and detective story writers.

The best advertisement errs on the side of conservatism. It understates rather than overstates. For then the customer is delighted with the value rather than disappointed by the promise.

The best advertisement puts itself in the reader's place. It does not ask him to be any more credulous than it would be if circumstances were reversed.

The best advertisement believes that publicity honestly conceived will be honestly believed. It places the good will of its patrons before a good day's business.

The best advertisement avoids the use of extravagant comparative prices, such as "Women's Dresses, $13.75, values $25 to $50." It recognizes that the public knows merchants are neither wizards nor philanthropists.

There are a great many "best advertisements" appearing these days over the signatures of broadminded, progressive local merchants. This sort of publicity is making friends for stores and friends for advertising.

It is gratifying for the Better Business Bureau to feel that, in cooperation with Washington newspapers and merchants, it has been helpful in bringing about this condition. For truthful advertising merits the support of every man, woman and child of Washington. There is no place here for the other kind.

The appearance of this announcement in these columns is evidence that this newspaper supports and cooperates with the Better Business Bureau for your protection.

QUOTATIONS SLUMP IN TRADING ON CURB

Professionals Dominate as Bears Defeat Bulls in Week's Skirmishes.

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—Although the Curb Market has backed up from its February highs, selling so far has been well absorbed and the bulls have managed to have something up their sleeves to prevent the decline from becoming a habit.

Prices drifted irregularly lower last week in a market that bore the distinct earmarks of professional trading. Although the bears had some support from the news, they were either unwilling or unable to force the issue, and reactions, for the most part, were moderate. Adjournment of Congress kept the utilities bucking the general trend, and the power company stocks at times were not far from their best prices of the year.

Oil stocks on the curb had acted indifferently during the broad advance elsewhere, but they dropped out of their narrow rut when selling of petroleum issues began on the big board last Friday. Humble and Vacuum broke below 60 and Standard of Indiana eased to a new low. The situation in the oil industry is admittedly unfavorable and its gloomier aspects were accentuated by the cuts in crude and gasoline prices.

Speculative interest in companies which are able to show larger earnings in these times of depression was reflected in Mead Johnson, which soared to a new high under active accumulation. The directors declared another extra dividend of 50 cents, but this apparently disappointed some traders who had hoped for a larger dividend and the stock sold off later. However, unfavorable dividend actions by industrial companies were more numerous and several weak spots developed.

Investment trust issues marked time, apparently waiting further developments in the security markets.

JEZEBEL'S POWDER GOOD FOR LEPROSY

"Stybic Stone," Used as Beauty Aid by Olden Queen, Has Curative Power.

LONG USED AS REMEDY

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—Antimony, the "stybic stone" with which Queen Jezebel anointed her face, is a new remedy for leprosy.

The Biblical queen used it for beauty, but Dr. C. N. Myers, of Brooklyn, has found a method for introducing it into the body to kill certain types of deadly bacteria. Use of antimony as a medical remedy is thousands of years old, and Dr. Myers' work is a development of a long-recognized property of this metal.

He prepares it in the form of a brownish-yellow powder readily soluble in cold water, and suitable for hypodermic injection. The powder contains small quantities of antimony and also of arsenic, a closely-related element.

One serious obstacle in curing many diseases is that the substance which will kill the germ is likely to be almost equally poisonous to the patient.

But in this respect the antimony-arsenic preparation "is more satisfactory than any now available," says a statement by Dr. Myers and his colleague, Binford Throne, M. D., just published in the Journal of Laboratory and Clinical Medicine.

Calvert Is Silent On Woman's Leap

Attorney Denies He Knew Mrs. Daniels Was Wed; Goes to Baltimore.

Elizabeth City, N. C., March 8 (U. P.).—C. B. Calvert, middle-aged attorney, was on his way back to his home at Baltimore tonight, accompanied by two friends, after a hotel tragedy in Durham in which a woman leaped to death from a tenth story window.

Calvert declined to discuss the death of Mrs. Trucie Daniels, 46, but told the authorities he had not known she was a married woman. Mrs. Daniels' husband is said to have interrupted a meeting of the couple in the hotel, early Saturday morning.

Calvert had been in Durham to administer a Federal receivership for a closed mortgage company, and his report was recently submitted.

PREMIER IN RUSSIA ATTACKS U. S. PROBE

continued. "Production has decreased 32 per cent in the United States and 29 per cent in England.

"There are no signs of improvement in the capitalistic countries. They seem to have fallen into a trap from which there is no escape. The bourgeois economist does not know what to do. The German economist Bon says that capitalism is breathing its last when a rich country like America has failed to overcome the crisis.

Termed as Absurd.

"Lloyd George has said that if social insurance for the unemployed were stopped, there would be revolution in England tomorrow. France blames the unrest in her colonies on bolshevism. That is absurd; nobody believes it. Germany, France, Italy and England are trying to reconcile the differences between them, but, owing to different interests and economic crises, no real understanding is possible."

Molotoff asserted that capitalist countries were increasing their military budget under the guise of establishing world peace, but really were preparing a new division of the world among themselves.

He added that capitalist countries tended to charge all of their misfortunes to Russia—that, first, they did not believe in the five-year plan; second, they awaited its future and, third, they are now afraid of it.

Investigation Is Discussed.

As to an investigation into forced labor charges by commissions from capitalist governments, such as has been suggested in the United States, the premier declared that Russia never would permit this. He invited foreign newspaper correspondents to see conditions in the timber districts for themselves, however, and said he would welcome delegations of authorized workers from any country to investigate labor conditions.

His concluding remarks were on Russia's desire for peace after he declared that France, with England's aid, was attempting to organize an economic blockade against the U. S. S. R.

"The U. S. S. R. stands for peace," he said, "as it has proved during the past years, and will continue in the future. Our red army is strong and getting stronger because we have proof that our enemies are plotting intervention."

VIVIAN GORDON'S BROTHER COLLAPSES

ter's Field, Pierre kissed the dead lips that knew Broadway at its vilest and gayest, and vowed vengeance. In his room at the hotel today police found a stack of newspaper clippings recounting day-by-day developments of one of Broadway's great tragedies.

Pierre is a powerful man. He weighs about 200 pounds. House detectives at the hotel, summoned by his nurse, had to exert all their strength to restrain him in his room and finally the police were called.

At the hospital physicians said his condition was not serious. It was a nervous breakdown, caused by grief and worry, they said.

The official acts of H. Stanley Renaud, the magistrate who sent the late Vivian Gordon to the reformatory in 1923, will be scrutinized tomorrow at a public hearing before Referee Samuel Seabury.

The hearing is part of the appellate division's inquiry into magistrates courts.

Previous witnesses have testified Magistrate Renaud frequently dismissed cases in which the complaining officer failed to appear after one adjournment. This practice, the prosecutor charged, would have permitted "fixers" to intercede with policemen who would be absent until their complaints were dismissed.

It was not disclosed whether the Gordon case would be discussed at tomorrow's hearing. The woman was sentenced in March, 1923, at which time she refused to give any details of her private life.

Governor Orders Probe.

Samuel Seabury tonight was named by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt to act as special commissioner to investigate charges against District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain.

The investigation, which involves one of the most important Tammany Hall officials, came as the result of charges filed with the governor by the City Club of New York, asking Crain's removal. The petition charged inefficiency, incompetency, failure to enforce the criminal law and misfeasance in office.

Seabury will report back to the governor, who may remove Crain if he sees fit and name a successor to serve the remainder of the year. A new district attorney would then be elected in November and take office January 1.

Seabury is serving also as the appellate court division's referee in the investigation into the magistrates' courts.

Crain, through his secretary, said today that he would fight the charges, that he has nothing to hide or to fear.

His secretary said, "His record as district attorney has been better than that of his predecessors, as will be amply proven at the proper time."

Antoist Held to Face Drunken Driving Count

Nathan Mills, who said he lives in Washington, was held at the Rockville, Md., jail last night on a charge of driving while drunk, after his automobile was in collision with another driven by Leonard A. Garner, colored, of Rockville, at the intersection of the orbeck road and the Rockville pike.

Mills continued out the Norbeck road after the collision, according to Policeman Bortges, of Frederick, Md., who gave chase. Bortges overtook Mills and turned him over to County Officer John Butts, who returned him to the Rockville jail. Garner was unhurt, but his car was badly damaged.

GRANGE WILL HOLD SESSION ON DEGREES

Fairfax Fire Department to Meet; Volunteer Aid Hurt in Fall.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Pioneer Grange, of Masonville, degree team will hold a practice meeting this evening in the Grange Hall. The team has been invited to put on the third and fourth degrees at a meeting of the Grange at Floris on March 20.

The Volunteer Fire Department at Fairfax will hold its regular monthly business meeting this evening in Robey Hall at Fairfax.

The Young People's Missionary Society of the Andrew Chapel Methodist Church will hold a meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sanders at McLean.

Douglas Boynston, a member of the Falls Church Volunteer Fire Department, was badly injured when he fell into a 68-foot well while fighting a fire which destroyed the home of Wallace S. Covington on the Lee highway, 2 miles west of Merrifield, late Saturday night. He was rushed to the Georgetown Hospital by Town Sergt. Walter Mitchell and Fire Chief E. M. Ward, of Falls Church.

According to the statement of Sergt. Mitchell, who witnessed the mishap, the firemen had conquered the blaze and Royston was extinguishing the burning embers with a small hose, when he plunged into the well, which was hidden from view under the debris. Firemen witnessing the accident rushed to the mouth of the well and lowered a hose into the well and quickly pulled him to safety. At the hospital several stitches were taken in closing a large laceration and another on his arm. He is also suffering from a sprained ankle and possible internal injuries.

Another determining factor which influenced the committee's recommendations was the possibility that the bonding companies who purchase the bond issue might not consider the bonds as valuable if they had not been passed upon by the qualified voters of the town. It is not believed that the second election will materially delay the installation of the system, as it is planned to proceed immediately with the preliminary details.

The water committee also decided to recommend that the council get a definite statement immediately from the Arlington County authorities as to the cost of the water for the town from the Arlington County water mains. In view of the difficulties now facing Arlington County in regard to the supply main over Chain Bridge there is a possibility that the town of Falls Church will have to obtain its water from another source.

The Old Glory Council, Daughters of America, will hold its meeting this evening in the Order of Fraternal American's Hall in McLean.

The quarterly conference of the Southern Methodist churches in the charge, which embraces Floris, Herndon, Arnon Chapel and Dranesville churches, will be held March 16, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in the Dranesville Southern Methodist Church, with the Rev. E. V. Regester of Alexandria as presiding elder.

The Falls Church town council will hold its regular monthly meeting in the town hall this evening. The council will consider the recommendations from the special water committee, composed of members of the council and citizens, in regard to the municipal water system bond issue.

The members of the water committee, with Councilman Charles E. Gage as chairman, have decided to recommend that the council hold a second election of the qualified voters of the town to ratify the action of the resident freehold property owners who voted last month to bond the town for $125,000 for the installation of a municipal water system.

Attorney John S. Barber, who has been acting as counsel for the committee, has rendered an opinion, stating that the council has every legal right to proceed with the installation on the resident freeholder vote, without submitting it to a vote of the qualified voters, as a water system is a revenue-producing utility.

The advisability of holding the second election is that if this bond issue is passed on by the qualified voters, the bonds will not constitute part of the town's 18 per cent real estate valuation to which a town is allowed to bond itself, according to State law. Citizens of the town believe that before the water bond issue will be paid the town might wish to bond itself for additional schools or for a modern sewerage system, and as neither of those projects are revenue-producing utilities, they would be subject to the legal 18 per cent clause.

The Fairfax County High School Athletic Association, of which Harris Nipe, of Oakton, is president, met recently and arranged a schedule for the approaching interhigh school basket ball season.

The baseball schedule pens March 27, when Oakton plays Lee-Jackson; Falls Church, at McLean; Herndon, at Clifton; April 1, Oakton, at Falls Church; Lee-Jackson, at Clifton; McLean, at Herndon; April 10, Herndon, at Oakton; Clifton, at McLean; Falls Church, at Lee-Jackson; April 17, Clifton, at Oakton; Lee-Jackson, at McLean; Falls Church, at Herndon; April 24, Clifton, at Falls Church; McLean, at Oakton; Herndon, at Lee-Jackson; May 1, Oakton, at Herndon; McLean, at Clifton; Lee-Jackson, at Falls Church; May 15, Herndon, at Falls Church; Clifton, at Lee-Jackson; Oakton, at McLean; May 8, Lee-Jackson, at Herndon; Oakton, at Clifton; McLean, at Falls Church; May 12, Lee-Jackson, at Herndon; Oakton, at Clifton; McLean, at Falls Church; May 15, Falls Church, at Oakton; Clifton at Herndon; McLean, at Lee-Jackson. The two teams with the highest average will play each other for first place. The date for the championship game was not set definitely.

The association, which is composed of representatives from the high schools in the county, decided to have the same events in the track meet as last year. This meet probably will be held n May 16 in the Fairfax County Fair Grounds. President Nipe appointed G. C. Cox, of McLean, and Miss E. Shanx as a committee to select the trophies and honors for the winners of the track meet. C. P. Scott, of Falls Church, and Mr. Watt, of Lee-Jackson, were appointed as a committee to work out the order of events for the day.

Catholic U. Team To Meet Florida

Capital Debaters Will Open Season Tonight Against Strong Opponents.

Catholic University debaters open their season in opposing a team from the University of Florida at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the Martin Maloney Chemical Laboratory.

The question will be, "Resolved, That the nations should adopt a policy of free trade," a topic selected for the year by the national debating fraternity, Pi Kappa Delta. William Ferguson and Vincent Zahner will represent Catholic University, taking the affirmative, and E. Dixie Beggs and Harold B. Whal will represent the visitors.

The University of Florida pair is one of the strongest debating teams in the country, with a score or more debates to their credit. They made a successful South-wide debating tour in 1929, a tour of the Middle West in 1930, in which they lost one debate in ten, and are here on a tour including also Penn State, Temple, New York University, Boston, Holy Cross, Vermont, Bucknell, Lehigh and Colby College.

Capital Man Classed As Moron in Court

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., March 8.—A lunacy commission named to determine the sanity of Herbert A. Lukie, of Washington, D. C., charged with holding up the Commercial Hotel recently and rifling the cash register, reported last night to Judge Williams, in Corporation Court, that "aside from being cross-eyed, we find Lukie is physically well and is physically sound, but mentally he would be classed as a moron."

The court took the report under advisement, and Lukie was remanded to jail. Police said that after robbing the hotel he fled, but stopped at a local filling station for gasoline and was captured there.

Winchester Farmer Dies After Crash of Motor

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., March 8.—Samuel Shafer, 45, farmer, died in a hospital last night from a skull fracture and internal injures suffered when an automobile he was driving got beyond cotnrol on the Front Royal road several hours earlier, overturned and pinned him under the machine. A youth named Orndorff, riding with him, escaped with cuts.

J. S. Haldeman, Winchester business man, happening along a few moments after the accident occurred, brought Shafer to the hospital. He never regained consciousness. He is survived by his wife and two sons.

John Mosiman is serving his twenty-second term as chief of the Falls City (Nebr.), Volunteer Fire Department.

Exportations of American-made goods through Laredo, Tex., into Mexico during November were valued at more than $2,000,000.

Ships Anchor Birds To Water With Oil

New York, March 8.—Steamships, after sweeping the "winged" sailing craft from the seas, have advanced another step and are taking huge toll of all winged creatures of the waters, the United States Biological Survey has informed the American Game Association.

"Great flocks of ducks, geese, divers, gulls and terns die in winter when their feathers become soaked with oil pumped into the water, in evasion of a Federal law, by oil-burning ships and oil tankers," the survey reported. "The birds, unable to fly, die of the cold or hunger or are mercifully drowned."

The 25 farmers' mutual exchanges now operating in North Carolina had a combined business of more than $1,500,000 in 1930.

Farmers of Halifax County, N. C., have signed 850,000 pounds of tobacco to be delivered to the cooperatives next year.

ANDREW O. HUTTERLY DIES IN BROOKLYN

Farmer Nautical Timepiece Expert Served With Shipping Board.

Andrew O. Hutterly, considered the foremost timepiece expert in the United States, a former resident of Washington, died Saturday at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., it was learned here yesterday.

Mr. Hutterly conducted a jewelry business in Washington for many years, and served the United States Shipping Board during the war as a nautical instrument and timepiece expert. He continued his service with the Shipping Board until 1925.

He came to Washington in 1886 and married Miss Anna G. L utz in 1889. He is survived by the widow; three son, William U. and George C. Hutterly, of Washington, and Andrew J. Hutterly, of New York City; also by a daughter, Mrs. L. I. Diehl, of Washington, Pa.; a brother, C. P. Hutterly; two sisters, Mrs. William Shaffer, of Steubenville, Ohio, and Mrs. Ida McCoombs, of Wheeling, W. V., and by five grandchildren.

Mr. Hutterly was a member of St. Paul's English Lutheran Church here, and taught Sunday School there for many years. The Rev. Henry W. Snyder, pastor of the church, will conduct the services at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Frank Geier's Sons, 1113 Seventh street northwest. Masonic rites will be conducted at the grave in Rock Creek Cemetery, with the Rev. Simpson B. Daugherty, chaplain of Washington Centennial Lodge, officiating.

Worry of Surplus Crop Hits Pop Corn Growers

Jackson, Miss., March 8 (A.P.).—Add pop corn to the growing list of commodities of which there is a surplus.

Besides oil, wheat, cotton, pecans, yams and citrus, there is too much pop corn, according to Government statistics.

Warnings of price reductions have been followed by a pop corn crop reduction campaign. "It may be well for those who are planning to increase uncontracted acreage, and especially for those planning to grow pop corn for the first time, to consider the situation carefully before plunging too deeply," crop specialists say.

Child or Liquor Court Sentence

Tells Mother She Can Have Child if She Stops Drinking.

Special to The Washington Post.

Camden, N. J., March 8.—A choice between liquor and her baby faces Mrs. Hazel Keuser, 22, of Corinthian avenue, near Girard. Vice Chancellor Edmund B. Leaming, in Camden Chancery Court, ruled that her 2-year-old son, Emmanuel Thomas, should remain in the custody of his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Emmanuel Keuser, of Palmyra, N. J.

In making this decision the vice chancellor pointed to testimony that Mrs. Keuser had been seen drunk and was known to be an habitual tippler. "She must learn to let liquor alone if she hopes to be accorded the responsibility of a mother," he said. "Mrs. Keuser now has a job managing a small apartment house in Philadelphia and she is financially able to care for the child, but he will be turned over to her only when the court is convinced she has conquered her weakness."

The baby's father killed himself last Christmas. He and Mrs. Keuser had been separated some time before that, and during the separation the boy was taken to live with his grandparents.

Annual Fiances' Fair Celebrated in Italy

Florence, Italy, March 8 (A.P.).—The "fiances' fair," the first occasion of the year when the young people of Florence are allowed to walk out together unchaperoned, was held today in the historic Piazza San Gallo, attended by a large gathering of prospective brides and bridegrooms.

Under the good-natured chaffing of their elders, the couples walked arm in arm among the vendors' booths and flower stalls, which did a lively trade in consequence of the young men's generosity. Spring comes early to Florence, and there was hardly a pretty girl in the whole city who did not have a bright bouquet, the gift of some admirer.

MRS. MARY CANTWELL RITES

Mass to Be Said at Church of Nativity Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Agnes Cantwell, 68 years old, who died Saturday at her home, 5715 Sixteenth street northwest, will be conducted there at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, with mass to be said at the Church of the Nativity at 9:30 o'clock. Interment will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

She died after poor health for 18 years. A native of County Limerick, Ireland, she was brought here when 15 years old and resided in this city continuously. She was active in the Catholic Church.

HENRY D. ALLER DIES OF HEART DISEASE

Connected With Fisheries Bureau for 27 Years; Rites Tomorrow.

Henry D. Aller, assistant chief of the Alaska division, United States Bureau of Fisheries, with which he had been connected for 27 years, died yesterday following a heart attack, at his home, 1427 Chapin street northwest.

Mr. Aller was 51 years old. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Barbara Bartlett Aller; a 10-year-old daughter, Jean, and a sister, Mrs. Cornie Peebles, of Newark, N. J.

He was a graduate of Rutgers and Cornell, where he took degrees in forestry and zoology, and was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity.

In 1903 Mr. Aller joined the Bureau of Fisheries staff, his first assignment taking him to Alaskan waters. In 1908 he became director of the Marine Biological Laboratory in Beaufort, N. C., but in 1911 was again transferred to Alaska, where he remained until 1923.

Mr. Aller had since been continuously on duty in Washington. During his service with the bureau he had written a number of books on Alaskan fishing.

His body will be sent from the Hines undertaking parlors today to Gladstone, N. J., where services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon under Masonic auspices.

CLARENDON TO MAKE BICENTENNIAL PLANS

Civic Organizations to Send Members to Arlington Meeting March 17.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

A meeting of representatives of the principal county-wide civic organizations will be held in Clarendon Tuesday evening, March 17, to organize an Arlington County Bicentennial Council.

The organization will formulate plans for the county's participation in the George Washington Bicentennial next year.

Call for the meeting is being sent out today by Harry A. Fellows, president of the Arlington County Civic Federation, pursuant to a resolution adopted by the body at its last meeting.

The Civic Federation resolution under which the meeting is being called provides for five representatives from each of the several county-wide bodies and five officials of the county.

Mr. Fellows announces that Representative Sol Bloom, associate director of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, will be requested to address the organization meeting of the council.

$1,000 Fire Damages Residence.

Fire causing damage estimated at more than $1,000 yesterday morning destroyed furniture and personal effects in the residence of Leon Curoust, 1731 K street northwest. The fire started, it was said, when some one struck a match in a room in which a quantity of disinfectant had been spread.

Montgomery Fingerprinter Wins in First Investigation

Howard County Gets Benefit in Arrest of Man Accused of Theft, But Released Recently for Lack of Evidence.

Success has crowned the first case in which the newly established Bureau of Identification of Montgomery County figured, but its neighbor, Howard County—and particularly Ellicott City—reaped the benefits.

Established a month ago, the bureau began functioning less than two weeks ago after Policeman Theodore Volten had completed his instruction in Washington. Restless at the inactivity, he and Police Chief Alvie A. Moxley readily accepted the call of Police Chief Julius Wosch in Howard County to solve a crime in Ellicott City, involving theft of accessories and incidentals from an automobile concern.

Fingerprints made on a rear window, photographed by Mr. Volten, tallied with fingerprints of a Negro on file in the House of Correction at Jessups, Md. The man had served terms there for safebreakings at Boyds and Germantown.

A lookout led to arrest of Richard Dorsey, 32 years old, in Baltimore. Confronted with the similar prints, Dorsey yesterday was declared by Chief Wosch to have confessed to the crime. He had been arrested in connection with the case soon after the robbery, but had been released for lack of evidence. Charges of housebreaking and larceny were lodged against him yesterday and he was held for the March grand jury there.

FIREMEN TO HOLD 60TH ANNIVERSARY

Alexandria Engine Co. No. 4 to Give Banquet Tonight in Odd Fellows Hall.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The Columbia Engine & Motor Co. No. 4 will observe its sixtieth anniversary with a banquet at 8 o'clock tonight in Odd Fellows' Hall, the affair to be informal.

Speakers will be the newly elected representative from the Eighth District, Howard Worth Smith; City Manager Wallace Lawrence, State Senator Frank L. Ball, Fire Chief James M. Duncan, Paul Morton, city manager of Petersburg, Va., and former city manager of this city; Gen. Edgar Warfield, of Robert E. Lee Camp of Confederate Veterans; members of the city council and Justice of the Peace George S. French.

A musical program will be the feature of the evening, with Bill de Grauche and his Capitalians; Miss Margaret Ogden, daughter of the late Kenneth W. Ogden, former fire chief and one of the most noted tenor singers in this section, who will be accompanied by James Walters; Smith brothers, Mrs. Renaldi and Mrs. Bluet, a sketch; Mrs. Frank Perry, accompanied by Mrs. D. C. Book, and Donald Jameson.

J. Davis is chairman of the entertainment committee, with Leo E. Moore, Claude Hines, Elton Shinn, C. B. Cook, Leo Deeton, S. M. Jones, J. Edmunds, Noble Smith, E. L. Young, H. Metzger and Edward S. Leadbeater as his assistants.

The ladies' committee is composed of Mrs. S. M. Jones, chairman; Mrs. J. J. Davis, Mrs. N. Davis, Mrs. George Wells, Mrs. James Robey, Mrs. M. Lawrence, Mrs. A. Rohr, Mrs. William De Silva, Mrs. P. Posey and Mrs. M. Wells.

Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, has announced that it will inaugurate the practice of an annual banquet, beginning April 6 next, the anniversary of the date of the declaration of the entry of the United States in the World War. Invitations will be sent to the national commander, Ralph O'Neil; Department Commander Roby C. Thompson, Gen. McArthur, U. S. A.; Gen. Smedley D. Butler, U. S. M. C.; the commanding officers of the nearby Army posts and other distinguished personages.

The committee from the post is composed of Clyde B. Lanham, Mrs. Laura Anderson, Dr. Howard L. Arnold, Col. Ambrose E. Emory and Sergt. Mars. Freeman, to be assisted by the following committee from the American Legion Auxiliary: Mrs. F. Clinton Knight, the president; Mrs. J. W. McMenamin and Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson. This committee will meet tonight to begin plans for the affair.

The post will hold a joint meeting with the Washington Society of Alexandria on Wednesday, March 11, in Gadsby's Tavern, when the portraits of John Gadsby and his wife will be exhibited and an address on the originator of the now famous tavern will be given by David Rankin Barbee, nationally known newspaper writer on historical subjects. The public is invited to attend this meeting.

The collector of income tax, J. Sidney Wiley, has stated that to date he has received the lowest number of tax returns for a number of years, approximately 250 persons having thus far submitted their returns.

All unmarried persons making $1,500 a year or more must file returns, and all married persons making $3,500 a year or more must file, and business concerns with a net profit of over $5,000.

The chamber of commerce will hold a meeting of the general membership tonight at 8 o'clock when the school committee will submit its report and the body will also act on the question of an appropriation for broadcasting in 1932 for the bicentennial celebration of George Washington's birthday.

The regular business meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club will be held tomorrow evening, at 8 o'clock, at the George Mason Hotel, but without supper, as the annual public relations dinner of the club will be on Thursday evening.

Lieut.Col. Jordan Gets Ordnance Staff Post

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., March 8.—Lieut. Col. Harry B. Jordan, on duty with the general staff of the War Department at Washington, is to join the staff of Headquarters Third Corps Area as corps area ordnance officer some time in the spring, War Department orders received today announce. His relief from assignment in Washington is made effective April 21.

A graduate of the Military Academy, class of 1901, Col. Jordan has served in the Cavalry, Field Artillery and Ordnance Department. He is a graduate of the Army Industrial College, 1926; the Command and General Staff School, 1927, and the Army War College, 1925.

Petersburg Eagles Hold Services for Deceased

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., March 8.—Petersburg Fraternal Order of Eagles held its annual memorial services this afternoon in their aerie in Odd Fellows Hall, which were largely attended. The services were conducted by the officers of the aerie and the memorial address was by the Rev. H. H. Hughes, pastor of the Blandford Baptist Church. An interesting program was rendered.

The custom of placing a wreath on each grave following the service has been changed and now a marble bearing the title F. O. E. is placed at the foot of each grave.

TWO PRODUCTIONS SLATED AT VIRGINIA

'Trial by Jury' and 'Ghosta' Will Bring to Close Winter Season.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 8.—One musical and one dramatic production will be given in Cabell Hall this week by University of Virginia students to wind up the winter theatrical season.

Tomorrow night and Tuesday the Glee Club will give a concert, the feature of which will be a costumed performance of the Gilbert and Sullivan comic operetta "Trial by Jury." The Virginia Players will present Ibsen's "Ghosta" Friday and Saturday evening.

Henri Ayers, of Brooklyn, N. Y., has the leading role of the bride who enters suit against the husband who deserts her. Andrew Summers, of Abingdon, Va., sings the part of the husband, Robert Bentley, of River Edge, N. J., plays the flirting judge, and Richard Newman, of Newport News, Va., the defense counsel.

In the concert that is to follow the singing of "Trial by Jury" Hilton Rufty, of Richmond, Va., and Estes Howard, of Lynchburg, Va., will play Aubert's "Suite Breve" for two pianos.

After a season in which almost every other type of play has been offered to the public the Virginia Players are turning their talents to tragedy when they present the great Ibsen drama on Friday and Saturday nights.

Everard Meade, of Washington, D. C., has the leading role of the son. Others in the cast are John Habberton, New York City, Alton Gulkis, of West New York, N. J., and Miss Eunice Lomaster, of Etna Green, Ind.

Washington Man Jailed at Rockville

Held for Investigation on Charge of Taking Farm Agent's Auto.

Charles Peters, of Pennsylvania avenue northwest near Seventeenth street, last night was held for investigation at the Rockville Jail, after police said he was discovered in an automobile owned by Otto W. Anderson, Montgomery County farm agent.

Responding to a phone call, Policeman Harry Merson, of the Rockville force, found Peters being held by Ralph Benson, an employe of the Rockville Motor Co., in front of the company's store. Benson told police Peters asked him to whom the Anderson car belonged, and then entered it and started the motor.

Earlier in the evening the man boarded a car driven by John Wilson, of Rockville, and asked Wilson to drive him to New York, Rockville police said.

South Carolina Girl Is Named Princess

Louise Bryson, of Columbia, First to Get Seat of Honor at Carnival.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., March 8.—Gov. I. C. Blackwood, of South Carolina, has appointed Miss Louise Bryson, Columbia, princess from that State to the eighth annual Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival, to be held here this spring, announced today by Nelson F. Richards, director general.

Governors of 25 States east of the Mississippi River have been requested to appoint State princesses.

Miss Bryson is the first to be named. Mrs. B. B. Dutton will be director of the department of the queen and her court.

26 MILL STRIKERS FACE TRIAL TODAY

Group Charged With Attack on Nonunion Employe and Daughter.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., March 8.—Twenty-six members of the textile union indicted for "assault by a mob" are due to be tried in the corporation court tomorrow morning. They are charged with making an attack last November on C. W. McKellar and his daughter while they were on their way to work in the Dan River Mills during the strike period.

While each of the 26 is named in two indictments, the defense, under the Virginia law, has the right to a severance, and it is understood that H. T. Williams, counsel for the group, will make such a motion. Such a course would necessitate a separate trial in each case, before a separate jury, which would materially lengthen the present term of court.

McKellar and his daughter were nonunion employes of the mills and were on their way to work, passing through some woods near Schoolfield, when, it is claimed they were waylaid by the defendants and attacked. For the third time in recent weeks Danville has been flooded with circulars signed "Central Committee, Communist Party, U. S. A." They make no allusion to the recent strike, but appeal for membership in the party.

The United States Government is attacked in the printed handbills and they contain a demand for recognition of the Soviet government of Russia. The Fish committee's report is severely condemned, as are "the Fascist leaders of the American Federation of Labor."

Police have been unable to determine by whom the leflets have been distributed. They were found scattered about the streets.

NO ARMS REDUCTION YET.

Throughout Europe it is assumed that Italy has obtained a valuable consideration in exchange for agreeing to naval inferiority to France. It is rumored that bankers are arranging to float a large loan to Italy, to be sold principally in France and the United States. Cynical observers suggest that Premier Mussolini has made a deal similar to that embodied in the London Treaty of 1915, when Italy obtained assurances of territorial acquisitions as the price of entering the war on the side of the allies. German newspapers are now accusing Mussolini of abandoning the movement to bring about revision of the Treaty of Versailles, and they take it for granted that he has obtained something very valuable in exchange for his about-face on the question of revision.

Much is made of the Franco-Italian naval agreement as providing a basis for general arms reduction at the conference next May. Before the world takes it for granted that the strong nations will reduce their armaments it would be well to know more of the Franco-Italian agreement and what obligations it imposes upon other nations, including the United States. The suggestion that the United States has taken part in buying a Franco-Italian agreement is offensive to Americans, many of whom would like to see this country keep out of European bargaining, even if the object of the negotiations is to promote peace through reduction or limitation of armaments.

The prospects of general arms limitation next year can not be said to be bright. Too many reservations have been made by the great powers, and too many factors stand in the way of deliberate weakening of defenses. Soviet Russia has the largest army in the world. Russia's economic invasion of Europe and the United States has barely begun, but it is already knocking down prices and threatening to lower the living standards of other nations. When the nations set up barriers to keep out the flood of Russian goods, as they must do in self-defense, the resulting friction may develop into war along the borders of eastern Europe, involving most or all of the powers. The masters of Russia strive incessantly to keep the war spirit alive in the red army by picturing western countries as plotters against Russia. Europe would be foolish to risk its security upon the assumption that the Russian army will not fight except on native soil, in self-defense. The possibility of a struggle between Communism and its antagonists in Europe is sufficient to induce the leading powers to remain armed. Until western nations know that Russian Communism has abandoned the effort to destroy them they will maintain their defenses.

Mighty forces are at work which tend to consolidate all free nations against Russia. France and Italy would soon forget their differences if both should be confronted with militant Communism. Amicable relativity agreements among the naval powers are good, but they do not necessarily indicate a disposition on the part of the strong nations to weaken themselves at a time when a strange and gigantic world force is at work whose aim is openly declared to be the destruction of all except Communist governments.

NATIONAL SALVATION CONFERENCE.

The country will kindly suspend its chatter while the Tailors of Tooley Street hold their conclave. Republicans and Democrats having made a mess of everything, the self-named Progressives will sit about round tables for two days for the purpose of saving the Nation. The round-table device is a neat invention, which enables each of the country-savers to imagine himself as the head of the table. There will be no Gann-Longworth feud over precedence. At the round table the best will be no better than the worst, and all may talk at once.

On the program of national salvation these items appear: Unemployment and business stabilization, public utilities, agriculture, the tariff, and the promotion of a return to constitutional government. The conclave is "not to be a political conference in the ordinary sense," according to the venerable Senator LaFollette. How could it be, when purely nonpolitical topics like the tariff are to be discussed by gentlemen who are not politicians in the ordinary sense? Partisanship will not be permitted to debauch the proceedings. Prominent Democrats like Gov. Roosevelt having been invited and having declined to attend, and reactionary Republicans not having been invited at all, the knights of the round table can go forward with a clear conscience, free from all political contamination.

Uncertainty as to whether Senator Borah will attend the synod has given rise to the apprehension that the problems on the agenda may not be solved. In some quarters the fear is openly expressed that the country is doomed to stagger along in darkness in spite of the impending conference, all because of Senator Borah's absence. This feeling of defeatism is scouted by others of optimistic mind, who insist that Senator Borah is merely holding a private conclave with himself, as usual, and that his better angel will win over the demon of doubt. He will be there, they say; and we believe them. Is there not a country to be saved? Is there not unemployment? Doesn't unstabilized business need the gyroscope of Idaho? Is there not a tariff to be revised for the exclusive benefit of agriculture? Isn't it necessary to return to constitutional government by the Senate?

The tremors and trepidations in regard to Senator Borah's possible abstention from the national salvation conference take no account of Senator Norris. It is not a compliment to him when citizens regard Senator Borah's presence as indispensable to success. No conference can fail when Senator Norris is present. He is a conference in himself—a complete round table, with a solution ready-made for all national problems. All that the country need do to be saved is to agree with him. It is the blind and dumb stupidity of the masses, including Congress and the President, that constitutes the only obstacle. The President's veto of the Muscle Shoals panacea was the most cruel and merciless act of the ages, and Congress riveted the infamy upon a helpless people by refusing to override the veto. That panacea held in itself a solution of all the problems on the agenda of the national salvation conference. It abolished unemployment, stabilized business by transferring it to the Government, made the tariff superfluous, stimulated agriculture to an orgiastic degree, and insured the return of constitutional government by the Senate. When Muscle Shoals died, all perished. But Senator Norris survives. There is hope!

Let the national salvation conference proceed, whether Senator Borah shall appear or whether he shall remain unstabilized. Senator Norris will be there, bringing his panacea with him.

CRUSHED BY THE DOLE.

All of England's leaders except Ramsay MacDonald are crying out against existing conditions and sounding warnings of disaster. The Labor government is doing little to meet the situation, except to borrow more money for the dole fund. Mr. MacDonald speaks of the "inevitable trade recovery" and the maintenance of "our high standards of life," as if this change in Britain were only a passing phenomenon. Either the government does not grasp the seriousness of the situation, or it is trying to hide its inability to cope with such an emergency. Mr. MacDonald is avoiding defeat only by sidestepping vital issues. But the public is alarmed, and the fate of the Labor government hangs in the balance.

According to the London Times the country is sinking deeper in the morass every day. "Though the general depression has complicated and intensified our difficulties," says the Times, "it has not been their sole or even their principal cause." Britain's whole economic system is out of adjustment. As a convincing illustration of that fact the Times points out that British products "are largely shut out from foreign countries while every foreign manufacturer is given free access to compete with British industry from the shelter of his own protected market."

Industry is staggering under the burden of taxation made necessary to support the unemployed. But in spite of the heavy tax rates the government sinks further into debt every year. The borrowing power of the dole fund has been extended to approximately $450,000,000, and there is no assurance that the peak has been reached. Industry is so enmeshed in this system that improvements have been neglected. Machinery and methods are obsolete, and costs of manufacturing are abnormally high. More efficient industries on the Continent undersell British goods and produce a new crop of unemployed to be supported by the dole.

Britain's great shipping industry is also in a deplorable condition. The business of tramp ships has fallen 10 to 27 per cent below the average before the war. All shipping has suffered a radical decline. Last year 1,750,000 tons of shipping were laid up in British ports. Those ships which remain in operation carry such light cargoes that their owners are losing money.

The evidence that Great Britain is losing ground in the economic race of the nations is unmistakable. Under the socialistic policies of the Labor government conditions have become acute. In trying to solve superficial problems the government has neglected the fundamentals, and the whole economic structure is undermined. Both industry and the government are being crushed by the dole and its consequences. It remains to be seen how long Britain will stagger along under this weight before a new industrial revolution sets in.

CHICAGO'S FAIR FAME.

Representative Oscar De Priest arose on the floor of the House a few days before Congress adjourned to defend the fair name of Chicago. He wants the people to understand that Chicago is not a crime city. The American people should not continue their disparagement of the Illinois metropolis, because it is planning to celebrate in 1933 a "century of progress."

Mr. De Priest brought forth statistics to disprove the calumny that has been heaped upon Chicago. Washington, he says, has more crime per capita than Chicago. In a list of 68 cities Toledo, Norfolk, Indianapolis, Spokane, Seattle, San Antonio, El Paso, Miami and numerous others have dreadful records for crime. But the fair name of Chicago is hidden among the hick towns where crime is all but unknown. Indeed, it is sixty-eighth on the list of 81 cities. The number of crimes per capita is only a fraction of what it is in some of the really bad American towns.

Nor can any one impugn Mr. De Priest's statistics. They are taken from tables compiled by the Bureau of Investigation of Department of Justice and include all such vile offenses as murder, manslaughter, robbery, assault, burglary, larceny and auto theft. Yet there seems to be one little loophole through which the matter might be viewed from a slightly different angle.

This record on which Chicago chooses to rest her reputation is a tabulation of "known offenses." If crimes are not "known," of course, they are not counted. And be it said in justice to the Windy City that her police and officials do not "know" more than is convenient. For example, the activities of Al Capone, who has come to be known as Chicago's most prominent citizen, are not "known" to Chicago police. When he was released from a Chicago jail a couple of years ago he paid a visit to the Chicago police and found himself "not wanted."

Mr. Capone is now in the toils of the Federal court for contempt, and there is a movement on foot to charge him with income tax evasion. But he does not figure in the crime statistics of Chicago, and it is fair to assume that most of his henchmen and the other "big shots" in Chicago's greatest industry are "unknown." The Chicago criminal is above (or below) mere statistics.

For the purposes of the world's fair let the records show that Chicago is a paragon of excellence. But the people who gather there from all parts of the globe will be disappointed if they don't see at least one good gang murder.

That fellow who invented an instrument to measure the speed of light ought to be set to work on a device to record the changes of administration in Peru.

NEVER TOO POOR TO FIGHT

From the Christian Science Monitor.

In discussing the issue of peace and war it has lately become the habit to dismiss the possibility of certain countries engaging in war, because "they are too poor to fight." This is taking too much for granted. Apart from its undesirable nature as an approach to the problem, the statement rests on a foundation so unsubstantial as to be completely illusory; it is therefore doubly dangerous.

Certainly the World War proved that economic conditions do not prevent war. In 1914-18 no fact was more clearly demonstrated than that in taking up arms a nation was not necessarily handicapped by the absence of a well-furnished war chest or even war arsenal.

Immediately on the outbreak of the war all peace-time economic checks were suspended. The nations harnessed themselves to war-making under a regime which, like that of present-day Russia, forbade internal competition. Excess of plant capacity came into service, new factories were built, vacant fields yielded to agriculture, and flower gardens gave place to vegetable allotments. In a stock-taking in post-war England four-fifths of the reporting firms stated that after making allowances for deterioration they had more plant than before the war, in some cases four times as much. England, the great dependent, was in a fair way to feeding herself, even when some sources were stopped and others hindered.

No question of gold stocks impeded this activity. The nations quickly separated themselves from the restrictions imposed by the gold standard and international competition by using the printing press to finance production and consumption. Among the allies Great Britain steered the longest course in "paying her way," but soon she was compelled to follow the example of the other belligerents and dilute the purchasing power of her currency. All the powers in Europe came to the peace conference with an inconvertible paper money.

This is not saying that all nations discover that they are El Dorados when they go to war. Some are poorer than others in natural resources, but under the necessity imposed by war they obtain far more than previously out of their potential wealth, and rely on borrowing for the rest. In war time nations will cheerfully sign huge obligations to pay for necessary commodities, as the late allies did, reserving the reckoning to an unknown future, when they find that according to peace-time standards they could not afford them.

Indeed, about the last inquiry a state makes before embarking on war is whether it can afford the war. Often, in fact, the people's condition may be so impoverished that the Government will take the Shakespearean course of giddying their minds with foreign quarrels so as to stave off internal disturbances. It is precisely because war may be regarded as a way out, or a safety valve, like bankruptcy in private life, that it behooves all men of peace to make peace more attractive.

POST HASTE.

Anyhow, Mr. Raskob, a love-feast that can only talk about drinks never has been successful.

The President must feel at times that temporarily he has a big job on his hands, but just think of Dr. Clarence True Wilson, permanently in charge of "prohibition, temperance and public morals."

Now, if we had an academy of American language, arrangements could be made to invent a new name for the South American "republics" that change military governments every week.

Can the way the alliteratives repeat in the White House be mere coincidence? Apparently checking up on the W. W.'s, C. C.'s and H. What is fame? Well, one C. Coolidge draws down $400 a day for writing a column half this long on one subject.

It seems that Democratic senators do not object to Smith and Cox calling themselves titular heads, but they must not claim the milk in the coconut.

Never mind, Mr. Baruch, whether you call it drafting or not, capital and tay-at-home labor have got to come into the next war on some equitable basis along with the boys in the trenches.

The Raskob "home-rule" plan would necessitate a Federal patrol of all State boundaries in addition to national lines—a ten times increase in spotter jobs.

Statistics would be interesting as to whether more patients and pedestrians are not killed by 50-mile ambulances than patients are saved by getting them to the hospital three minutes sooner.

What a Legg-acy Chairman Stone has fallen heir to! Steen hundred million bushels of wheat—but it's such a long story we shall have to make a cereal of it.

VICTORY.

What does it matter after all,
That some have more and others less?
Men often give their best and fall
And die and never know success.
Heaven will be filled with creatures odd
If only victories count with God.

I've felt the scorn a failure knows.
But here's the thought reflection brings:
Must men be master of his foes?
Was he designed for winning things?
When to the cross His hands were nailed
Many imagined Christ had failed.

What if the dream be unfulfilled?
What if the dream be ne'er attained,
There must be something which we build
Outlasting treasure lost or gained
What man calls triumph cannot be
God's final test of victory.

If Einstein's Equations Seem Meaningless Marks, It Isn't Because of His Ignorance.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE ordinary cynic is cynical because of his ignorance.

That seems a strange criticism, for cynics usually are regarded as people uncommonly well informed, but the truth of it is easily established.

The cynic is not a mixer.

He stands aloof from the common herd and measures his fellow men from a distance. He observes that many are noisy and ill-mannered and sour with sweat. He hears vulgar and ungrammatical speech. He observes customs and ways of amusement that seem childish. He sees evidence of foolish superstitions and silly enthusiasms and stupid prejudices. And seeing these things he concludes that all men are vile and stupid creatures, unfit to share the rights and freedoms he enjoys. He calls them swine.

But he does not consider all men swine. He has friends who please him. He is aware that their knowledge itn't universal, but he respects them because they know much about a few things. He knows their imperfections, but enjoys their society still because their good qualities outnumber the bad. He is at times irritated by their faults, but at other times he is surprised by their courage, their patient endurance, their loyalty and their sound sense. On the whole he thinks them a decent lot.

Why, then, does he scorn and abominate the mass of mankind?

Simply because of his ignorance—because he doesn't know men.

If he knew other men as he knows his friends, he would find something admirable in all of them.

In fact, among those he scorns the most he would find a sincerity, a bold manliness, an independence, a forthrightness of salty speech and a natural dignity that he may not find among his friends.

His fault is that he forms opinions without investigation. Having assumed his own superiority, he assumes the evidence to support it and condemns mankind without trial to justify his vanity.

You can't judge men intelligently until you travel the road they travel.

The golfer's enthusiasm seems childish because you are ignorant of golf. The musician's delight in a Beethoven sonata seems affected because you are ignorant of music. The share-cropper's prejudices seem ridiculous because you are ignorant of share-cropping.

You would have a new respect for the other man if you stood in his shoes for a while.

Since you can't do that, the wise course is to assume that he is doing much as you would do in his place, and refrain from criticism to hide your ignorance.

To mock at fear isn't proof of courage. It is merely a confession that you never went to war.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Another Speed Record.

Minneapolis Journal.

President Hoover vetoed the bonus loan act, and told why. But, the moment the measure was repassed over his veto, the President's administration acted with record breaking promptness to get the loan money actually into the veterans' hands. And Mr. Hoover himself took particular pains to see that those in greatest need should be first served.

Traditionally, the machinery of our democratic government works slowly. But, in this instance, the roll call in the Senate had scarcely ended when cash was going forward to carry out a congressional mandate which the very man responsible for all the speed had strenuously opposed.

And that's being President.

Business, Not Politics.

Los Angeles Times.

President Hoover's attitude on the bonus bill seems to indicate that he is going to administer his office as he sees it and not play politics with an eye to 1932. Wonder how many members of the Senate and House voted with the same determination.

City Against the Sticks.

Detroit News.

To set up the claim is easy enough, but it is difficult to get away with the contention that the rural congressional districts have sent abler men to Congress than the cities. During recent decades, city representatives now dead who won national names were Kahn, of San Francisco; Bourke Cockran, of New York, and Mann, of Chicago. From the Wilson administration, Fitzgerald, of Brooklyn, now a practicing lawyer, is recalled. Of no others do we at the moment hear more often than of Speaker Longworth, of Cincinnati; LaGuardia, of New York, and Beck, of Philadelphia.

Some of Both.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Senator Borah's Plea for Cut-Throat Russian Despotism.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: On one question Senator Borah is always in tantamount agreement with himself—he advocates the recognition of the Russian Soviet government by the United States. In the closing hours of Congress he arose again to voice his judgment in favor of that action by this country and also to express the belief that there can be no real disarmament "until Russia shall take her place in the family of nations where the ordinary amenities of international intercourse prevail."

Senator Borah overlooks the fact that what Russia wants is not a seat at an orderly family table, but to disorganize the other members of the family and make them gang slaves.

Russia does not observe the amenities of nations, or amenities of any kind, at home or abroad. Her own people are under an oppression a thousand times worse than the tyranny of the czarist regime.

Most curious of all is Senator Borah's championship of the "innocent Russians," who, through lack of our recognition, are at the mercy and exploitation of powerful business groups. The senator is more naive than his Russian if he does not know that the Soviet government is building, as fast as it can, with money wrung from its hungry and unhappy hordes, a gigantic manufacturing plant to match the vast agricultural production she is developing, and that both will be used to flood the world of trade. Demoralization and later domination by her ideas through the spread of communism are her aims.

Russia is ruthless in her attitude toward her own people and toward the world. She has gone back to the old excuse that the end justifies the means, and she is willing to disrupt the present social order throughout the world so that she can begin remolding it after her own pattern. The reds are not honest with Russia or with the nations. They confiscate without compensation, whenever and wherever they can. Their promises, even to mind their own business and let other nations alone, are worthless, as has been demonstrated time and again. The reds simply change agents and continue their campaign of tearing down existing institutions throughout the civilized world.

When a revolution places a new government in power in the smallest of Latin-American countries and that government is willing and able to maintain order and protect foreign residents in their property and treaty rights, it is recognized by the American Government. And this is done because it is believed that the new government is sincere in its desire to become an orderly member of the family of nations. Russia's record shows that she has no such intentions and that only when forced by dire necessity of securing favors required for her own benefit, does she pretend to keep faith.

Intent and ultimate designs, as shown by good will or repeated instances of bad faith and deception, are things that measure a nation's credit in the minds of men. Russia's heart today, as it must be judged by the actions of the Soviet government, is not in the right place.

RICHARD WAITE.

Urges Construction of Lee Highway by Convict Labor.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In connection with constructing the Lee Boulevard in Virginia to connect with Arlington Memorial Bridge, it is not apparent to a layman what is back of the move of certain citizens in Arlington County in opposing the use of convict labor to do this work.

Anywhere one travels in Virginia it is apparent that the roads constructed by the State with convict and other labor are superior to the portions constructed by contract; that is, it is clearly notable that the contractors "skin the job," and it is, therefore, to the advantage of the taxpayers to eliminate contract method of road making.

Are convicts to be housed and fed in idleness at our expense in the interest of contractors? If the county and State have a surplus of funds, why are the funds not used to give employment on the miles and miles of roads still in need of improvement?

Several Pieces of Encouraging News. Admirer of President Hoover Deprecates Attacks Upon Him.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Post of March 3 brought cheerful news. On the first page we hear that Mussolini gives President Hoover the credit for initiating the plan of naval curtailment. We also found on the first page more encouraging news about India.

We are all looking forward to better times, not only here, but in the world at large. Manufacturing nations await world peace, and all good citizens will work to bring this about.

It grieves me to hear people spreading discontent with our present administration and saying: "The next President will be a Democrat," and making disparaging remarks about our President. Mr. Hoover has been the victim of circumstances, the aftermath in a period of adjustment following the greatest war in all history. We should be thankful that we have such a man in the chair. But, like Washington and Lincoln, he is for a time subject to criticism from people who never see greatness when it is contemporary.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Birth in Japan Is of Interest To Washington

Wife of Heir Presumptive Once Attended School Here.

THE recent announcement of the birth of a fourth daughter of Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako, of Japan, was read with more interest in Washington than in any city outside of Japan, with possibly the exception of London. For the wife of the heir presumptive to the throne of Japan, Prince Chichibu, is well remembered here as Setsu Matsudaira, daughter of the former Japanese Ambassador and Mme. Matsudaira, who are now in London where the former is the representative of his country at the Court of St. James.

The young "empress presumptive" passed several of her school years in Washington at the Friends School, where she made many friends, a number of whom have been in Japan since Setsu left, and have been charmingly received by the princess, who keeps in touch with her former acquaintances. Though she is now "her imperial highness" to all of Japan, she still remains Setsu to Washington, and is very simple in her letters to old friends.

Recently Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Sidwell, of the Friends School, received a letter from her in which she told of many of the activities of her new life which, as she commented, is like another world. When the emperor and empress receive officially, the prince and princess stand on either side of the royal couple to receive with them the members of the Diplomatic Corps and other foreign and Japanese officials.

The letter remarked on the celebration of "—your Christmas" in Japan, which, Princess Chichibu said, was becoming more like that in America, with Santa Claus for the children, and even Christmas trees. It is a season for great festivity, though the New Year of the old regime is still the occasion for the greatest celebration.

Washington and London have both been brought very close to Tokyo through this young princess, who listened eagerly on Christmas Eve to the voices of "the President Hoover" and of her father broadcasting that night from points remote from each other and remote from her, but which she could hear clearly.

Princess Chichibu left Washington for her home in Japan some time before her royal wedding because in order to marry into the royal family it was necessary for her to be adopted by a Japanese family of high nobility, and so was not here to be graduated with the other members of her class. But the diploma of the school was conferred on her before she left, and later she was made an honorary member of the Friends School Alumnae and is, in fact, the only honorary member of that organization, where she was such a favorite.

Though the princess may visit Washington again, it will be in such a capacity that her young friends will probably be a bit awed by the imporatnce of their former classmate but her letter to Mr. and Mrs. Sidwell was simply signed "Sincerely, Setsu," so perhaps those classmates need have no fears of their possbile meetings with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Davis, of Detroit, are in Washington for a few days, stopping at the Mayflower Hotel. Mr. Davis was formerly assistant to the United States Attorney General.

Col. and Mrs. R. C. Foy and Maj. and Mrs. Leonard T. Gerow will entertain at dinner preceding the U. S. Army dance at the Willard on Friday. Guests of honor will be Assistant Secretaries of War Frederick H. Payne and F. Trubee Davison.

Mrs. Walter N. Vernou Entertains at Dinner.

Mrs. Walter N. Vernou entertained a small party at dinner at the Shoreham Hotel on Saturday evening, when her guests included Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Morgan, of Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. Corcoran Parker.

Mrs. Vernou will also be hostess to a party at luncheon at the Shoreham tomorrow.

Miss Marian Estes entertained a small party of young people at the Club Chantecler supper dance on Saturday evening. Miss Estes is the daughter of Mrs. Frank Estes, of New York City, who has been at the Willard recently. Both Mrs. Estes and her daughter left for New York yesterday.

Other hosts at Chantecler on Saturday included Mr. John A. Thompson and Mr. Thomas Bell Sweeney.

Miss Mabel Caroline Meade will entertain at luncheon on Tuesday, March 24.

Tennessee Society Plans Masquerade Dance.

The Tennessee State Society will hold a St. Patrick's masquerade dance at the Willard on March 14. Col. Wade H. Cooper, president of the Commercial National Bank, will be honor guest.

Mr. Jose Coronado, Charge D'Affaires of the Colombian Legation, was host to a small group at dinner at the Shoreham Hotel on Saturday evening, the party remaining later for supper dancing.

Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua, chief of the Infantry, U. S. A., is at the Astor, in New York.

The Secretary of the Venezuelan Legation, Senor Don Pedro Marquez Rivero, was the guest in whose honor Mr. Enrique Coronado, of the Pan-American Union, entertained at dinner at the Shoreham Hotel on Saturday evening.

The guests included Miss Clara de Valiera, Miss Loyola Nicholson, Miss Marian Mezzanotte, Miss Ruth Liles, Miss Audrey Sperle, Miss Frances Flanigan, Miss Ruth Howard, Miss Patricia Wright, Mr. Miguel Marquez, Mr. Adam Carter, Mr. Rafael Martinez, Mr. Adolfo Hermaza, Mr. Gerald Smith, Mr. Jose L. Colon and Mr. Mariano Ramirez.

Mi-Careme Festival To Be Held Friday.

A mi-careme festival will be held in the Parish Hall of Grace Church on Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

The decorations of the hall, planned by Felix Mahony, will be elaborate and artistic, in keeping with the carnival spirit. Mrs. Robert C. Masterton, in gypsy costume, will tell fortunes in a booth on the stage.

An attractive program of fancy dances, songs and skits will be given by a group of children in the center of the hall, where dancing will follow.

The Rev. Meade Bolton MacBryde will entertain a group of artists at his table, among them Miss Catherine Critcher, Mr. Felix Mahony and Mr. Ross Wheat.

An engagement of interest to Washington is that of Miss Elizabeth Cushing Knapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Knapp, of Baltimore, to Mr. J. Creighton Riepe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry U. Riepe. Miss Knapp is a frequent visitor in Washington and has many friends here

The wedding will take place in July at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Knapp at Blue Ridge Summit, after which the bride and bridegroom will go abroad to spend their honeymoon.

Exhibition of Paintings Opens Today.

Senora de Tellez and Mrs. Patrick H. Hurley will assist at the opening of the exhibition of paintings to be given at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the north room of the Mayflower by Miss Catherine Critcher and Mrs. Roy L. Neuhauser. Miss Marjorie Lowe will give a recital at the opening today.

Included in Miss Critcher's collection of portraits will be recent ones of Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming.

Other prominent hostesses who will assist Miss Critcher and Mrs. Neuhauser at their exhibit are Mrs. William H. King, Mrs. Osmon Latrobe, Mrs. Charles Edward Riggs, Mrs. Nathaniel B. Dial, Mrs. Joel T. Boone, Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin, Mrs. Peter A. Drury and Mrs. Philip Lee Phillips.

Mrs. Turin Bradford Boone entertained yesterday afternoon, from 5 to 7 o'clock, in honor of Miss Cecelia B. Branham, dean of Brenau Academy, Gainesville, Ga., and director of Camp Takeda at that place. Miss Branham gave an informal illustrated talk on the beauties of the mountain section of north Georgia.

Miss Branham is a member of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority, the oldest sorority in the country, and also of Pi Gamma Mu, the national honorary social service fraternity.

Mrs. A. B. Jamison entertained a company of twenty at the dinner dance at the Shoreham Hotel on Saturday evening.

Others entertaining at the Shoreham on the same evening included Lieut. Comdr. A. T. Hickson, Mrs. Robert Pierce, Mr. John E. Laakey, Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. C. T. Durgin, Mr. G. C. Hansen, of the State Department; Dr. McInerney, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Lynch, Mr. Blair Coan, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hussey, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Sharshing, Mr. D. Spencer Bliss, Mrs. D. R. Miss Jane Lee To Be Married To Mr. Graham

Daughter of President of Packing Firm Is Betrothed.

An announcement of national interest is that of the engagement of Miss Jane Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. George Lee, of Chicago, to Mr. William Edward Graham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, also of Chicago. Mr. Lee is president of the Armour & Co., packers.

Miss Lee is a graduate of the Cathedral School of St. Mary's at Garden City, Long Island, and later attended Ogonts School near Philadelphia.

Mr. Graham was graduated from Westminster and attended Cornell University. No date has been set for the wedding.

Of interest in Army circles is the announcement of the marriage on Saturday of Miss Rosemary Kellogg, daughter of Mrs. Prescott Kellogg, and the late Justice Kellogg, of Waterbury, Conn., and Capt. Frederick W. Evans of the U. S. Army Air Corps.

The marriage was solemnized in the Church of the Transfiguration in New York, by Bishop Molton, of Utah. Owing to illness in the bride's family, only immediate relatives were present.

The bride was graduated from St. Margaret's School, and took a course later in Warrenton, Va. Capt. Evans is the son of Mrs. Henry Evans, of Boston, and the late Mr. Evans. After their wedding trip Capt. and Mrs. Evans will make their home at Mitchel Field, Long Island, where the former is now stationed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. M. Adair Are Hosts at Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. M. Adair entertained at dinner last evening at the Shoreham Hotel.

Modern Laundry Expert Explains "Net Bag System"

Tells How Manhattan Saves You Money By Saving Your Clothes

Present day laundry methods, which preserve clothes as well as clean them, are far superior to the old home method of rubbing and scrubbing, according to Mr. E. F. Wesely, chief of the Research Department of Manhattan Laundry. Mr. Wesely attributes a large part of the Manhattan Laundry's success to their Net Bag System.

Manhattan's famous Net Bag System of washing, as described by Mr. Wesely, follows: First, the clothes are assorted according to their color and material and placed in individual net bags which bear the customer's name and contain only that customer's articles. Safe in the nets and protected from all metal or other hard surfaces, the clothes go into the washers. Here they are subjected to the gentle cleansing action of swirling hot suds which penetrate each garment and loosen every particle of dirt. Only the purest of Palm Oil soaps and soft, filtered water are used, after first having been inspected and tested by the Research Department. Many rinsings of fresh, clear water follow, removing every trace of dirt. This thorough care in washing is one reason why Manhattan laundered clothes stay new-looking so much longer.

Customer Praises Net Bags

In a recent letter to the Manhattan Laundry, Mrs. E. R. D. writes:

". . . But the one actual fact that pleases me most is that the clothes do not show as much wear as they did when I had my laundry done at home . . . It is indeed a pleasure to recommend you . . ."

This letter is typical of the many received by Manhattan from satisfied customers throughout the District of Columbia and Virginia.

3-Day Collection and Delivery

Quite another Manhattan feature which has found great favor with Washington housewives is their 3-Day Collection and Delivery Service. In this highly developed system your clothes are collected one day, laundered to your order the next and delivered to you promptly the afternoon of the third day. For instance, if your clothes are collected Monday morning they are delivered Wednesday afternoon; called for Tuesday, back home Thursday, and so on. No delay. No worry. And there is no additional charge for this extra service.

Services to Fit Every Need

Manhattan offers the housewife a wide selection of economical services — from Complete Finished Family to individual piece work. There is a service to fit every need and purse, and every service receives Net Bag Care—which saves you money by saving your clothes.

DON'T even think of it! Not even under the false name of economy. That's the poorest excuse of all for washing clothes at home. And paying the bills with backache and heartache. With weary muscles and red hands!

Have an understanding about this laundry problem. No washing machines for you. And no embarrassing clothes lines either. Your home is not going to be a laundry. The clothes are going to Manhattan—where Net Bags Save You Money by Saving Your Clothes. Where modern equipment makes possible 3-Day Service. Where pure Palm Oil Soap and soft, filtered water protect even the daintiest pieces.

A call to Decatur 1120 will bring a representative to explain our many money-saving services. Phone today . . . and protect your charm and happiness from weary washday.

CHEERIO will be the recipient of a unique national tribute this week. Having in common their personal regard for Cheerio and their gratitude to him, and by virtue of this considering themselves fellow members of an invisible circle, Cheerio listeners everywhere will display in their windows, beginning this morning and throughout the week, a large red "C" on a white card.

This idea was submitted in a letter from one of the listeners as a fitting way to celebrate Cheerio's fourth anniversary on the air. The display is being promoted entirely by the Cheerio fans themselves, even to the extent of every one having to make his own "C" for his window.

Rosa Ponselle will sing seven songs tonight (WMAL, 8:30 p. m.).

A WORD sketch of Andrew Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, will be given by Edwin Alger this evening (WRC, 6:30 p. m.).

Given its tryout this morning (WJSV—10:30 a. m.) will be the "Women's Club Hour," by the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs. It will be a Monday feature hereafter.

THE Radio City, the model of which we had the privilege of seeing at its unveiling in New York last week, will occupy more space than that covered by the old State-War Building, the White House, the Treasury and the front portion of the new Commerce Building, combined.

Imagine four immense theaters, including probably the new Metropolitan Opera House, and two 48-story buildings, flanking a 68-story building, expected to put Al Smith's Empire State Building, the largest in the world, in the shade.

Think of all that built along Pennsylvania avenue, with the sky-scrapers dwarfing the Washington Monument, and you will get some idea of the Radio City. It will be located across Fifth avenue from St. Patrick's Cathedral, from Fifty-first down to Forty-eighth street.

Though everybody is trying to hand everybody else the credit for developing this stupendous project which John D., jr., is to finance with spare change amounting to $250,000,000—all publicity men have been muzzled at the unveiling—it didn't take high-powered binoculars to see the active part M. H. Aylesworth, president of the NBC, is playing in the undertaking.

Jeanette MacDonald, screen actress, will be in the Pleasure Hour on Wednesday evening (WJZ, WLW, 9:30 o'clock).

The Rochester Civic Orchestra will have Harry Watts, pianist, as soloist during the program tonight (WJZ network, 10 p. m.).

The Viennese pianist, Robert Goldsang, will play Wednesday night (WMAL, 10:30 p. m.).

TOMORROW evening will mark the last of the Tuesday Westinghouse Salutes over the WJZ network. It will become a Sunday evening WJZ feature beginning March 15, with WBAL the nearest station taking it.

An up-to-date list of broadcasting stations in the United States, compiled by the Federal Radio Commission, is being distributed by the Government Printing Office for 15 cents per copy, with the free list suspended.

AFTER being conducted through New York broadcasting studios, a visitor asked:

"May I come back some day and play with the sound effects equipment?"

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Roy Sarnoff

NE PLUS ULTRA
THIS LATIN PHRASE MEANING "NOTHING MORE BEYOND" IS FAMILIAR TO US BECAUSE SPAIN IN THE HEIGHT OF HER POWER PRINTED IT ON HER LARGER COINS. IT APPEARED WITH A DESIGN OF THE PILLARS OF HERCULES TO SIGNIFY THAT THERE WAS NOTHING WORTH-WHILE BEYOND THE STRAITS OF GIBRALTAR. AFTER COLUMBUS DISCOVERED AMERICA THE COINS WERE CHANGED TO READ "PLUS ULTRA" (MORE BEYOND).
TURNING THE TABLES
THE GAME OF BACKGAMMON WAS FORMERLY CALLED "THE TABLES." WHEN THE FORTUNE OF THE GAME CHANGED FROM ONE PLAYER TO THE OTHER, THEY SAID THE TABLES WERE TURNED. THAT'S WHERE WE GOT THE EXPRESSION
THE FIRST AIR MAIL
DURING THE SIEGE OF PARIS IN 1870, IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO GET MESSAGES TO THE OUTSIDE WORLD UNTIL SOMEONE CONCEIVED THE IDEA OF RELEASING BALLOONS WITH MAIL AT NIGHT AND PERMITTING THEM TO DRIFT BEYOND THE BATTLE AREA.

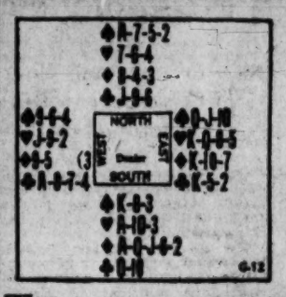
WORK ON BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE DONE BETTER?



THE above hand was played by South at one No Trump at Auction at Contract the bidding probably would have been the same): West led the Four of Clubs, North played the Six, East the King and South the Ten. East returned the Five of Clubs, South played the Queen and West permitted it to win, reading from the play that East had the Deuce of Clubs. West would have made a serious but common error had he won the second round of his suit when he was unable to take the third and was without an entry to cash the suit when established.

When South won with the Queen of Clubs he was obliged to put dummy in with the Ace of Spades to take the Diamond finesse. But it was not possible to put North in again, and South led the Ace and Deuce of Diamonds to clear the suit. That let East in to lead his last Club and West took three Club tricks which, with the two tricks already made, saved game.

Could you have done better?

The Correct Play.

It is clear that South should have played the Queen of Clubs on East's King. Then if East returned the suit and West ducked, dummy could have won and led a Diamond and then been put in the lead with a Spade to lead a second Diamond which would have won the game.

While there can be no question about the soundness of South's play of the Queen of Clubs, there might be some as to East's return of the Club Five in the event of West's playing the Queen on trick 1. East can tell that South has another Club because West has led the Four of Clubs and having but one smaller can not have had more than five Clubs. Therefore if the Clubs should be established, North's Club Jack as well as his Spade Ace will be entries and will enable that hand to lead Diamonds twice through East's King-Ten-Seven—which is not at all what East desires. A Heart lead from East to trick 2 would save game. Declarer could hold up Hearts until the third round and then lead a Club, but West could win and lead a Spade; two Diamond leads from the dummy hand are essential for Declarer.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Is He Superior?

DEAR FRANCES M'DONALD. Please do not pass over this as unworthy of your time for it is a matter that is already robbing me of the happiness I know I ought to feel. I have been engaged for some time to a man who is everything a girl could ask—everything but a lover!

When he asked me to marry him a year ago she was very matter-of-fact about it and at the time it rather spoiled what should have been my big moment. I felt let down, but I was also conscious of his great earnestness. And I had been made love to so much by such silly men that I was ready to get down on my knees and thank the dear Lord for sending a real man to me at last. Besides I love him as I never thought I could ever love. We became engaged. He gave me a beautiful ring, but did not even kiss me when he gave it. I could have cried. But I did not.

That was one year ago. Since then he has shown in every way that I am the one person in the world he is always thinking about. If my eyes look tired he wants new glasses for me and gets them. No matter what we have planned it is put off if I do not feel well or can not go. Never a scowl or a frown or cross word in a whole year. Even my family are his concern. My kid brother has a bad case of chilblains. He bought him the most wonderful pair of special "engineer's boots," as he called them. The kid wears them proudly where he would not wear rubbers. In brief, he is a wonderful man. But he never tells me that he loves me. Never kisses me or in any way shows that he is a human being.

Is he just a superior type? Are some men above such things? Once I asked him if he was going to be so indifferent after we were married. He showed no anger, but said very coldly, "What do you mean by indifference?" It was very hard to explain and I told him so. He never tried to go on with the discussion. Just asked me if I would like to see a certain show that was opening. One other time I said that I was afraid we would not be happy together. He became very quiet. And then said there was still time to change my mind if I wanted to. Oh, Miss McDonald, at that moment I hated him and felt positively sure that he cared nothing for me and was only marrying for a home and to settle down. I spoke of this to mother. She said he might have settled down "to better advantage" if that was his idea. She seemed disgusted with me. But she does not understand how I long to be told all that other girls hear over and over again.

In sane moments I know he loves me. He has helped Dad out several times just like a son. I never even knew till mother told me. I know he is fine. But will we be happy? Is he just too fine for simple me?

YANKEE DOODLE.

The inability to show affection is evidence of neither superiority nor inferiority. It is merely a matter of temperament not of caliber. But a man's inability to sense the spiritual as well as material needs of the woman he loves invariably results in an unsatisfactory relationship. Your man is the material type. Chilblains, eyestrain, are things within his ken. The yearning of woman for the glamorous experience incident to love is quite beyond him. He is the type of man who belongs to his wife body and soul. But he has not much soul. He is the type that accounts for the existence of the sheik and explains the otherwise dignified wife who suddenly electrifies her friends by eloping with some tenor.

Whether or not you will be happy with him depends upon your ability to substitute rye bread for French pastry. We would prefer the pastry.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"PISCES."

IF March 9 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10:15 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Tendencies for March 9: An unsettled atmosphere will overshadow the morning hours, and the early riser will not be stimulated to action. After 2 p. m. there will be felt an urge to accomplish, and night will be turned into day before you feel like "quitting." Good results from your efforts.

The child born on this March 9 will have a bright, sunny disposition, but not a forceful character. It will be easily influenced, and much a child of environment, and its schools and friends should be chosen carefully. It will be affectionate, loyal, friendly and "domestic."

You have a very sensitive nature and you reflect the color of your surroundings or the moods of your associates. Your feelings are easily hurt, and your spirits are quickly dampened. The gift of seeing slights in everything as you do reflects more favorably on the eyesight than the insight. You have a very slight sense of humor, and you take many things seriously, which only demand, or deserve a laugh. You are conscientious about doing your duty, and it wounds or aggravates you when others do not do theirs. You are too tender-hearted to be active in revenge, but you do harbor secret thoughts of resentment, which are more harmful to you than to your so-felt enemies.

You are more imitative than creative, and you would do better in a secondary position than in anything on your own. You are not afraid of hard work, and you do not feel yourself above doing anything, which is honorable and honest. You dislike being under obligation to others, in either a social or business way, and you often refuse help which would be gladly given you.

You are not a good mixer in society, as you are only free and easy with those whom you know intimately. From choice, you are a natural "stay-at-home." As you give your best self to those you are nearest and dearest to you, your greatest happiness is found beside your own fireside.

Successful people born March 9:

1—Americus Vespucius, explorer.

2—William Jackson, private secretary to President Washington.

3—Leland Stanford, founder of Leland Stanford, Jr., University.

4—Eddie Foy, actor.

5—Helen Florence Barnes, Y. W. C. A. worker.

6—Henry A. Ward, scientist.

VINES FOR CITY PLANTING.

IN the city where vistas are small due to lack of space, we can not all have trees, but this does not mean we must have bare walls and sunny porches. No, indeed! We can all have vines—and oh! how grateful we will be for their protection on hot days.

Where you have access to long spaces of brick walls, especially walls devoid of windows, let me urge you to make the "City Beautiful Movement" more than a dream—make it a reality and do your share by planting an ampelopsis veitchii. This is the ivy that is commonly called the Boston Ivy.

The ampelopsis veitchii never injures a wall, no matter how many years old it may be. Those of us who love the symmetry of this vine know this. Could we only convince other people that it is true, we would doubtless see an increase of 50 per cent in the number of ampelopsis planted this year.

This vine is such a rapid grower that in two years it will have grown 40 feet. It is restful and cool in summer, and beautiful when we come to the "Scotch plaid" days of autumn.

Of course, there are other places besides brick walls where vines may be used—places where shade is a necessity. Many porches are almost useless during the day or evening without vines. During the day we are subjected to the blinding rays of the summer sun and at night we suffer from the glare of nearby lights. In this case vines are essential.

In the country, where vines have plenty of root room, we have an endless number of varieties from which to choose, but in the city, where the asphalt almost touches our porches, we have little space for development. Therefore, our choice is limited. When we want a heavy growth of close foliage, there is nothing better than the old-fashioned honeysuckle.

There are several varieties, each with a splendid constitution, and this vine is so sweet that it is a pity we do not see more of it. It has, however, one fault. It runs away from us if we are not careful. We really should prune it every time we cut the grass.

The cardinal vine is attractive for a porch but it does not make so thick a growth as the honeysuckle.

The moonflower is also an interesting and worthwhile vine to choose when we want protection from strong lights.

The cinnemon vine is a strong growing climber which has small, deliciously fragrant flowers, and soon makes a dense shade; the Virginia creeper is also a wise choice. We never tire of its graceful, swaying branches.

It is well to water your vines every day the first season, and also to keep all weeds or grass from encroaching on the soil about their roots.

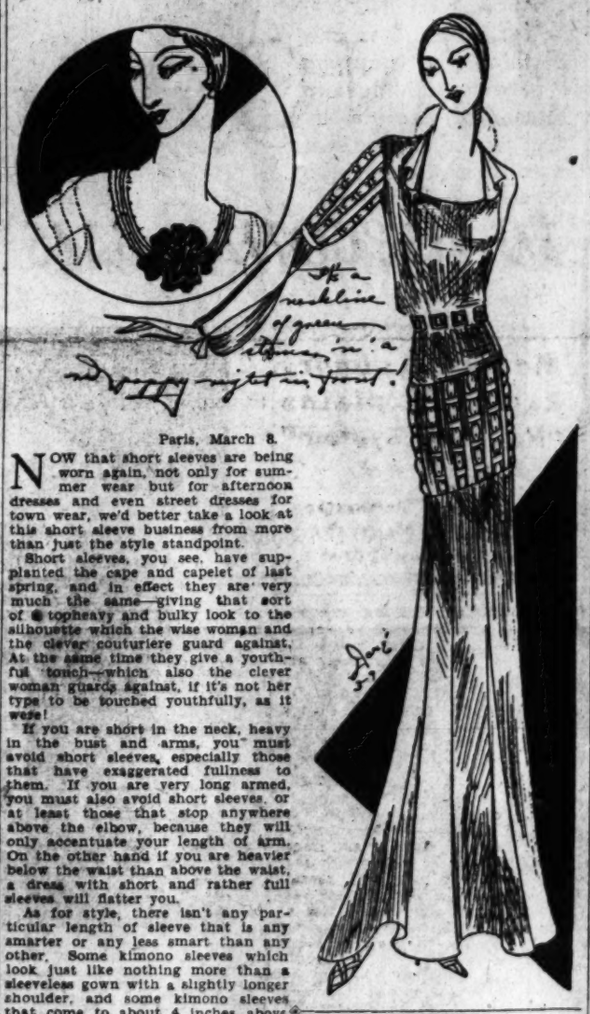
Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

A black georgette dinner frock with unusual tissue treatment, white georgette and little white ermine collar and a jeweled belt. (Courtesy of Dupouy Magnin, Paris.)



Paris, March 8.

NOW that short sleeves are being worn again, not only for summer wear but for afternoon dresses and even street dresses for town wear, we'd better take a look at this short sleeve business from more than just the style standpoint.

Short sleeves, you see, have supplanted the cape and capelet of last spring, and in effect they are very much the same—giving that sort of topheavy and bulky look to the silhouette which the wise woman and the clever couturiere guard against. At the same time they give a youthful touch—which also the clever woman guards against, if it's not her type to be touched youthfully, as it were!

If you are short in the neck, heavy in the bust and arms, you must avoid short sleeves, especially those that have exaggerated fullness to them. If you are very long armed, you must also avoid short sleeves, or at least those that stop anywhere above the elbow, because they will only accentuate your length of arm. On the other hand if you are heavier below the waist than above the waist, a dress with short and rather full sleeves will flatter you.

As for style, there isn't any particular length of sleeve that is any smarter or any less smart than any other. Some kimono sleeves which look just like nothing more than a sleeveless gown with a slightly longer shoulder, and some kimono sleeves that come to about 4 inches above the elbow are seen on smart dresses, especially summer dresses. Otherwise short sleeves have just as much care in shoulder fitting and cutting as a long sleeve.

* * * *

And one mustn'e forget the short-sleeved jacket which sometimes allows the sleeve of the dress underneath it in a contrasting color to show!

Now I ask you if your Dah-ray hasn't really the most perfect idea for an Easter ensemble for you! For when you can send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post and get an illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make a smart and beautiful tunic, and then tells you how to make several different skirts and matching collar effects to be worn with it, which changes completely into several different outfits, isn't that your idea of a perfect idea? Well, you send for the leaflet and see for yourself!

There are a lot of dresses in the new collections of the Paris Haute Couture like the one I have illustrated for you today, which at first sight, you don't see any particular use for in your own wardrobe. Yet you buy one or two or six if you are as goofy as I am, and then you find that you wear it almost all the time! That is because it is just perfect for an afternoon tea to which you are invited at somebody's home; or a dinner invitation for which you know your escort is not going to dress since he is coming directly from business; for a theatre engagement for which you wish to wear neither a street dress nor an evening dress; or for Sunday night affairs which very seldom permit a very formal attire but which always require something more elaborate than any frock that could be worn in the daytime.

Well, Dupouy Magnin offers this one in black georgette, with a touch of white crepe de chine and ermine at the neckline, a jewelry belt and an interesting manipulation of the material on the sleeves and hips.

Now to remind you again of Dare's weekly fashion letter. Look for it in each Sunday's Washington Post.

Au revoir.

Your Name

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Neal" is found with an unusually large number of variations. Some of the commonest forms are "O'Neil," "Neil," "Neale," "Neall," "Neel" and "Neell." This name is frequently derived from the Celtic "Niall," meaning "the champion" and "the leader." This is obviously the source of the name when a family can be traced back to Scotland or Ireland. This name was borrowed by the Scandinavians, who changed its form to "Njall" and "Njal." However, it is evident that in the Scandinavian countries and in Germany the many variations of this name have frequently been given as shortened forms of "Nicholas" and "Cornelius." "Nicholas" is ultimately of Greek origin, and may be translated "victory of the people." "Cornelius" is a famous Latin name meaning "as hard as horn," or "horn-colored." In England and in various over countries of Europe the French name "Nigel" has often been adopted as a supposed translation of "Neal." However, "Nigel" has a wholly different origin, its source being the Latin "Nigellus," meaning "the little black man."

The family name "Mac Vey" (also written "Mac Veagh," "Mac Veigh," "Mac Vay," "Veigh" and "Vahy") is especially common in Ulster, although it also occurs in Leinster and Connacht. It is the modern form of the original Irish "Mac an Bheathadh," which means "the son of life." It seems that in some cases "Mac Vey" is derived from the Irish "Mac Bhuilthe," which means "the descendant of the yellow-haired person."

THIRD CORPS AREA GUARD CAMPS SET

More Than 19,000 Expected to Take Training at Nine Different Sites.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., March 8.—Summer training for the National Guard of the Third Corps Area, which includes Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, will be conducted in nine different camps with an expected attendance of over 19,000 officers and enlisted men, according to tentative camp schedules just completed at Corps Area Headquarters.

Three units from outside the corps area train here. The 192d Field Artillery, Connecticut National Guard, will come to Camp Tobyhanna, Pa., for firing facilities, and the Twenty-seventh Tank Company and the 102d Ordnance Company, New York National Guard, will train at Fort George G. Meade, Md.

Estimate on Attendance.

Estimated attendance at the various camps follows: Camp Ritchie, Md., 2,608 (mostly Maryland National Guard); Camp Tobyhanna, Pa., 4,329 (chiefly artillery); Carlisle Barracks, Pa., 380 (medical units); Fort George G. Meade, Md., 172 (tanks); Fort Monroe, Va., 591 (Coast Artillery); Virginia Beach, Va., 2,568 (Virginia Infantry and Engineers); Frederick, Md., 116 (aviation); Middletown Air Depot, Pa., 121 (aviation); Mount Gretna, Pa., 8,432 (Twenty-eighth Division, less artillery and aviation).

The Maryland National Guard will train in four different camps. The schedule follows: Camp Ritchie, July 11-25, Fifth Infantry and Headquarters Company, Fifty-eighth Infantry Brigade; July 11-August 9, State Staff and Detachment Squadron, Fifty-eighth Infantry Brigade; July 25-August 8, First Infantry; August 9-23, First Separate Company, Infantry (colored).

Camp Tobyhanna, Pa., July 18-August 1, 110th Field Artillery.

Carlisle Barracks.

Carlisle Barracks, Pa., July 25-August 8, 104th Medical Regiment units.

Frederick, Md., August 9-23, Twenty-ninth Division Aviation.

Units of the District of Columbia National Guard will train in two camps—Camp Ritchie, Md., August 9-23, Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, Twenty-ninth Division, Twenty-ninth Military Police Company, 260th Coast Artillery (A. A.), Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, Special Troops, Twenty-ninth Division, District Staff and Detachment; Company "A," 372d Infantry (colored).

Virginia Beach, Va., August 16-30, 121st Engineers.

Camps for the Virginia National Guard are scheduled as follows:

Camp Ritchie, Md., August 9-23, Twenty-ninth Division Staff and Twenty-ninth Division Signal Company.

Carlisle Barracks, Pa., July 25-August 8, 104th Medical Regiment units.

Fort George G. Meade, Md., June 28-July 12, Twenty-ninth Tank Company.

Fort Monroe, Va., August 9-23, 246th Coast Artillery.

Virginia Beach, Va., August 2-16, Ninety-first Infantry Brigade and State Staff and detachment.

Camp Tobyhanna, Pa., July 4-18, 111th Field Artillery.

Pierce Hall Players To Give "Locked Chest"

"The Locked Chest," a one-act play by John Masefield, will be presented by the Pierce Hall Players at their annual meeting next month.

The cast includes Mabel van Dyke, who will play the part of Vigdis; William E. Bryant as Lord Ingiald, Laurence Staples as Thord, and Edward Northrup as the young Thorolf. The play will be directed by Catherine Palmer Mitchel, who will use the methods of the American Laboratory Theater in New York where she was formerly a student.

Business Pressure Keeps Walker From His Trip

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—Pressure of business forced Mayor James J. Walker to postpone his departure for California today. He said that if the business he wished to transact could be completed by tomorrow, he would leave immediately thereafter.

Walker plans to go to Palm Springs for a rest of several weeks on the estate of Samuel Untermyer.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON
Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.
Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

FIRST AID TEACHING PAYS.

THE Western Electric Co. was one of the first industrial concerns to undertake accident prevention in an organized way. They equipped their machinery with safety appliances whenever there seemed to be need of such. They installed one of the best dispensary hospital systems for giving first aid service. In consequence their accident rate fell markedly and there were the usual benefits which follow good surgical service. After a while, the improvement failed to proceed further. The ground gained was held, but no new gains were made.

C. W. Bergquist, president of the National Safety Council and an official of the Western Electric, went into a huddle with his associates to decide on the next step. They decided to try giving first aid training to the rank and file of the employes, on the theory that what was needed was to make the man at the machine safety conscious. Safety education and interest had not soaked in quite far enough.

Twelve of the company physicians were chosen as the first class in first aid procedures. As soon as they graduated they were made into professors. Each was given a class of 20 employes for training in first aid. Thus, 240 professors were trained. From this group 100 were chosen to teach first aid to the employes in classes of 20. The instruction is controlled and checked.

This method has been in use for four years and the report which is being used here is based on a five-year experience. There are about 4,000 employes who have had this training and the accident rate among these is compared with that of several thousand who have not had the training.

The following quotation is taken from Mr. Bergquist's report: "In the last five years our accidents have been reduced 92 per cent."

Not only are there fewer accidents, but those that do occur have less serious consequences. Fewer infections occur, time away from work is lessened, and the losses to the employe and employer are not so great.

It is not that these rank and file safety first trained employes do any great amount of first aid. They have been educated in first aid, and this causes them to be safety minded. They think of accidents in a personal way and they know the harm done by carelessness in treating wounds and the dangers of infections.

Mr. Bergquist's report supplies weighed evidence that education of employes in safety and first aid pays.

CANKER SORES IN MOUTH.

P. R. writes: 1. What is the remedy for canker sores in the mouth? 2. What cure is there for acidity of the stomach?

REPLY.

1. Touch the canker with some caustic. To prevent recurrence the diet and eating habits need to be changed.

2. Find the cause and cure it, whereupon the acidity will disappear. Among the causes are: Infected gall bladder, gall stones, adhesions, ulcers of the stomach and duodenum, worry, anxiety, fear, constipation, wrong eating habits, and diet.

DEPOSITS ON TEETH.

C. M. S. writes: What is the cause of teeth becoming calcified? Is there anything that can be done about it?

REPLY.

Teeth are naturally calcified. Do you mean to ask what is the cause of calculus or lime deposits on the teeth? Such deposits are composed of food remnants, bacteria, lime and other minerals derived from the saliva and from the blood. The principal causes are failure to keep the teeth and mouth clean, pyorrhea and the presence of dentures.

WEEK PROVES FAIR SAILING FOR BONDS

Latin-American Issues Are Leaders in Spectacular Foreign Advances.

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—The marked vitality of foreign obligations and the reception accorded tax-exempt financing were the major developments in the bond market last week.

That they might prove the harbingers of a long period of fair weather for coupon-bearing obligations was the hope of investment bankers and business men. Plans for obtaining needed capital to aid the recovery have been held up for several weeks because of the bonus clouds overhanging the market throughout February. But the Treasury's program of financing for March, involving $1,400,000,000, all but $300,000,000 of which was for refunding a 3½ per cent note issue, brought a large oversubscription without threatening the stability of the bond market, and the outstanding. Government obligations in particular.

In addition, the market for tax-exempts survived a real test in absorbing $10,000,000 in 4¼ bonds of the City of New York with far greater ease than had been predicted by the most optimistic. It swelled the total for the week to the largest figure since January, and foreshadowed a definite upturn in the flow of new bonds, both industrial and municipal, into the market.

No less encouraging to the bond market was the buying of foreign obligations at new high prices for the year. It was interpreted as indicating the gradual restoration of confidence among American holders of foreign loans, which ebbed last year as a direct consequence of the economic distress and political upheavals in many countries.

German, Australian, Italian and Latin-American obligations led the advance. There was a huge demand for German International 5½s, in response to the reassuring statement of Dr. Hans Luther, of the Reichsbank, that it was unthinkable the Reich would fail to meet its obligations to private investors. The bonds pushed into the 60s, against an offering price last year of 92 and a 1930 low of 68.

Corporate domestic bonds made some progress on the upside, despite the gyrations of the stock market. Earnings reports of utility companies, which as a group suffered less from the 1930 depression than railroads and industrials, caused some broadening in the demand for their bonds. The reverse was true of rails, which were irregular, within fractional limits, with a slight tendency toward lower levels.

Utilities Company Shows Increase in '30 Business

Chicago, March 8 (A.P.).—The Middlewest Utilities Co. annual report made public today shows 1930 total earnings were $31,506,573, compared with $25,965,815 in 1929, an increase of 21.3 per cent. Surplus earnings after payment of preferred dividends and administration expenses were $23,106,878, equivalent to $1.59 per share on common stock, against $1.18 in 1929.

Assets of the Middlewest Co. are $320,358,287, an increase of $94,396,630.

The Timid Soul —By H. T. Webster

STOCKS END WEEK OF STIFF PRESSURE

Banking Circles Encouraged by Quick Buying of Civic Issues.

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—Speculative quarters turned gloomily bearish in Wall street this week, while banking circles found much to be cheerful about Shares prices were under heavy pressure most of the week, although prices rebounded swiftly on Wednesday, and again today, indicating that the churning about of prices of the market primarily represented clashes between professional speculative groups.

Banking circles, which had not been overly enthusiastic about the February sending up of share prices, and are inclined to look farther ahead than professional stock traders, were greatly encouraged over the prompt oversubscription of $1,400,000,000 in new Government securities, and quick gobbling up of $100,000,000 New York City bond issue.

Foreign Group Is Buoyant.

While some of the listed bonds, particularly some of the rails, and some of convertibles affected by the stock market, ran into considerable selling, the foreign group was impressively buoyant, and high-grade investment issues were in good demand.

Bankers pointed to the passing of uncertainty over the Government financing, and the deep reservoir of ready funds disclosed by the quick sale of the issues, together with the thawing out of the international money market, evinced by the better demand here for foreign issues, and the revival of foreign lending by Paris, as developments of profoundly favorable augury.

The drop in share prices was rather violent on Monday and again on Friday, but as a result of the Wednesday and Saturday rebounds, the price index of 90 representative issues showed a net loss of less than 2½ points. At the close of the week, the index was only about 4 points below the 1931 peak reached the day after the Washington's birthday holiday, and was 12 points above the level of January 2.

The gyrations of stocks appeared to reflect primarily a tussle between bears on rails and bulls on utilities. Reductions in rail dividends undoubtedly contributed some real liquidation, although they had been confidently forecast well in advance. As a matter of fact, the week brought the largest assortment of adverse dividend news so far this year, which favored the bear cause, although bulls knew that was something which would have to be faced when they started bidding up stocks in February.

Utilities Are Buoyant.

The utilities were helped by the adjournment of Congress, together with its failure to override the veto of the Muscle Shoals bill, which had been a fearsome apparition to the enemies of public ownership. Furthermore, with Congress no longer in a position immediately to interfere, utility interests are hastening with plans of expansion and consolidation, which, of course, are facilitated by rising share prices.

The industrial issues were held back by the slow progress of business recovery, and several pool operators active in February were inclined to be discouraged. Conservative banking quarters, however, had forecast only a seasonal pick-up in business this spring, regarding next autumn as a more likely time to look for lasting business recovery.

The payment for the New York City bond issue, together with withdrawals by interior banks, seasonal at this time, caused this first chance in call money since the first of the year, the rate rising to 2 per cent on both Thursday and Friday after renewals at 1½. Credit conditions, however, were fundamentally unchanged. Brokers' loans for the week ended Wednesday showed a negligible change declining $22,000,000.

Skinker Five Beats French's, 39-31, in League Battle

By JOHN V. HINKEL.

THE Skinker Eagles virtually clinched their second consecutive Independent League title yesterday afternoon, defeating their closest rivals, the French-R. F. & P. tossers, 39 to 31, in a wild and woolly battle staged at the Silver Spring Armory before 600 extremely partisan fans.

Such was the fierceness of the struggle that only two of the original five players who started for each team were able to finish the struggle. Sweeney and Goldblatt, of the Eagles, and Zimmerman and Babell, of the Frenchies, all made their exits via the personal foul route, while Allen and McMenimen, rival centers, were ejected when their spirited exchange of words became an exchange of blows.

The Frenchies held the whip-hand at just one point in the battle—the first three minutes of play—when Eddie Colliflower, stellar guard, who was easily the outstanding player of the fracas, sank a beautiful pot-shot to inaugurate the scoring.

Despite the excellent work of Colliflower, who counted three more field-goals and two fouls, the rest of this half, the Skinker led at the intermission, 20 to 17.

The Eagles practically won the game in the first few minutes of the second half, when McMenimen, who had been playing a fine game at center for the Frenchies had his run-in with Allen and was forced to leave the contest.

Largely to their excellent foul shooting can the Eagles credit their win, as they caged thirteen out of 20 attempts. The French basketers on the other hand were able to cash in only on eight out of fifteen free tosses. Goldblatt, topped both teams in this respect, sending seven out of eight chances through the net.

Each quintet had a trio of stand-out players. Faber, Goldblatt, and Streeks were the Skinker luminaries, while Colliflower, Mesmer, and McDonald starred for the losers.

United Typo Quintet Beats Griff-Consumers

The United Typewriter tossers established themselves as one of the leading contenders for the unlimited section title in The Post's 1931 A. A. U. Tournament by scoring a clean-cut 34 to 24 victory over the strong Griffith-Consumer Team yesterday afternoon in a preliminary attraction to the Skinker-French go at the Silver Spring Armory. The triumph was the thirteenth straight win for the Uniteds.

After a slow first half, during which they scored one less point than did the Griffs, the Uniteds found themselves in the second stanza and, led by Freeman and Scheel, soon drew away from their opponents.

Freeman and Scheel, with 12 and 10 points, respectively, led the play of the winners, while Sherman and Lyles featured for the Griffs.

Iowa prison industries showed a profit to the State of $495,293.36 in 1930, according to the State Board of Control.

The estate of the late George E. Brennan, Democratic leader of Illinois, was estimated at $263,000.

PROGRESS IN TRADE RECOVERY IS SLOW

Further Gains Made by Car, Steel and Automobile Works in Week.

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—March, coming in with the lean lion of low business profits much in evidence, has in its first week made only moderate progress in fattening a succulent lamb of spring trade.

Further gains in steel mill activity, textile and motor production have appeared in the past week, but the spring recovery in business, which should develop vitally between late February and the first of April, remains a little tardy.

Of basic improvement in world conditions, promising better times possibly in the latter part of the year, however, there have been abundant signs. There have been several developments abroad of distinctly favorable augury.

Peace in India Is Help.

Among these the making of peace between the Nationalists and the Viceroy in India has been a development of moment which leading bankers say the business community has been slow to appreciate.

This agreement promises to end the economic impasse in that land of 400,000,000 persons and heal the sorest spot in England's foreign trade. England is one of the United States' leading customers and our foreign trade in normal times is a sizable portion of our entire commerce.

Other developments worthy of mention are the Franco-Italian naval accord and slight improvement in employment both in England and Germany. There has, of course, been tangible gains in employment at home, gratifying if primarily seasonal.

Demand for Steel.

Building statistics for the last week of February have not yet appeared, but a good demand for structural steel indicated that open weather has advanced activity in heavy construction. Iron Age estimated steel mill activity at 53 per cent of capacity, up 1 point and the tenth successive gain. Orders for line pipe and automotive products is expected to lift steel mill activity in the Youngstown area next week from 48 per cent back to 50 per cent of capacity.

In textiles, cotton staples have experienced an active February, and sales have continued in good volume into March, apparently bringing some further acceleration of Southern mill activity. Silk consumption, as reported for February, showed a gain of 7 per cent.

Motor production is showing a further seasonal gain this month, although moderate so far. Output is ranging somewhere between 50,000 and 60,000 units a week, and must pick up considerably if estimates of an output of more than 4,000,000 for the year are to materialize. Reports from the trade say that the soldier bonus has had a decidedly stimulating effect upon retail sales of cars.

The mercantile agencies indicate that wholesale and retail trade generally remains somewhat spotty, although the aggregate change, if any, has been on the favorable side. The approach of Easter will soon be felt by the retail apparel trade.

Slashing of Prices.

The petroleum industry has been rather thoroughly demoralized by further slasing of prices, and there is a feeling in many quarters that the situation has come to such a pass that concerted action to better conditions in the industry are imperative. Some of the so-called independents were disappointed that Congress failed to restrict imports, but the Secretary of Commerce has been endeavoring to bring large importers into an agreement on that score.

The edge seems to have been taken off the copper market by recent heavy buying, and consumers' immediate needs seem to have been satisfied. Large consumers should be in the market again by late April. While producers hope to maintain the price at 10½ cents a pound, it appeared at the end of the week that some speculative metal may be available at lower prices. The Indian settlement brought a three-day advance of 1½ cents in bar silver, but it slipped off three-eighths of a cent as the week closed.

Bank clearings for the first week of March were the largest so far this year, in keeping with the expected seasonal trend. The latest freight car loadings and electric power consumption reports were not susceptible to decidedly cheerful interpretations, but the February 22 holiday was a distorting factor.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—New municipal bonds scheduled for award this week total $20,624,361, compared with actual offerings of $119,714,044 last week. The week's largest issue is $11,070,000 Montreal, Canada, 4½ per cent bonds, to be placed Tuesday. The largest domestic issue will be $1,250,000 Cleveland 4½ per cent hospital bonds, to be awarded Saturday.

Twenty-six ships with cargoes of raw silk will dock at West Coast ports during April, the traffic bureau of the Silk Association of America reports. Eight ships are due at Seattle, eleven at San Francisco, three at Los Angeles and four at Vancouver.

Formation of a reorganization committee under a plan and agreement for the reorganization of Cellulose Products, Inc., under which the holders of Class "A" common stock are invited to deposit their stock, was announced today. The plan and agreement, approved by the directors, contemplates organization of a new corporation to acqire the property and assets of Cellulose Products, either directly or by stock ownership or control.

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, March 8.—Reference to the newspaper files of 1892 for information on the Corbett-Sullivan prize fight in New Orleans indicates that popular history makes use of the facts only as a frame or loom on which to weave the interesting patterns of legend.

I had often heard that Mr. Sullivan entered the ring that evening bowlegged from the weight of his own fat, but the ringside stories describe him as fit enough to take 35 minutes of hard, continuous gymnasium work, 105 beats on a skipping rope and a long swim in a pool only a couple of days before the fight. He looked strong and formidable in the early stages of the running account and the bulging middle, which, in later years was to become known as a paunch of blubber and the penalty for wayward living, and was then described as a deceptive characteristic of Sullivan's architecture, actually built of solid muscle.

A week before the fight, Corbett, on his way from New York to New Orleans, had paused in Atlanta to issue a demand that Sullivan fight stripped to the waist, insinuating that he had a habit of girding himself with thick pads of felt when he fought in a shirt.

Sullivan Gave Up Bout

The final paragraphs of the blow-by-blow description indicate that when Sullivan subsided, after an hour's fighting, he merely sagged down in collapse, spent by his own pursuit, his angry swings and the cumulative effects of Corbett's fire at his lips and body and convinced of the futility of going on. There is no indication that he was knocked out in the full meaning of the term. He went forward first to his knees, then flopped flat, then heaved up, rolled over on one shoulder and gave up.

It was important in those days to give one's people a run for their money, because prize fighting was a betting sport. But 21 rounds had convinced John L. Sullivan and all those who were about to lose their bets that there was no chance for him to win.

I am interested to observe that Mr. Corbett was not always the mannerly gentleman, but a rather tough mugg on occasions. Shortly before he went to New Orleans, a fighter by the name of Dominick McCaffrey, who had fought him and lost some time before, called on Corbett at Madison Square Garden to ask for a return match and was cordially insulted on sight. The boys in those days seem to have been pleasure fighters or amateurs at heart, for there are many references to informal encounters between the leading characters in saloons and dressing rooms and on the streets in which they would have wasted much valuable effort but for the calm counsel of their managers, who intervened to save the attractions for the turnstiles.

Words Fly as Rivals Yell

Mr. Corbett swore fluently at McCaffrey and McCaffrey yelled back in good voice, trading dirty name for dirty name, and the whole incident was quite unlike any of the unofficial meetings between the prominent pugilists of today.

Jack Sharkey, of Boston, is the most emotional of the modern heavyweights, but he is always quite civil to his colleagues and rivals when they meet outside the ring. Often he invites them to dine at his home with the wife and kiddies and shoot a few pounds of Kelly in his billiard room.

I judge from the accounts of Mr. Corbett's early conduct that he was nicknamed Gentleman Jim not so much out of compliment to his manners, but because he was a white-collar fellow who had worked on a high chair in a bank. In time he began to assume the airs and garments of the dude and gent, much the same as Jess Willard, who had been described as a cowboy, though he never had been one, assumed the high heels and hair pants of that calling.

Years afterward Mr. Corbett became a landmark, and his character mellowed and softened, but the name of Gentleman Jim appears to have been premature, for he was very impolite in his younger days. I doubt that Jack Sharkey ever swore any louder in his most hysterical moments than Gentleman Jim did sometimes then.

The sport writing business was an infant industry in 1892, for the baseball news consisted of no more than 50 words apiece on a couple of games, some days, with an abbreviated box score and the batteries. The umpires, for some curious reason, always were referred to as mister. Ten days before the fight in New Orleans there was only the briefest mention of the bout in the papers and the final build-up began in New York, where both fighters finished their training.

Homer Wins For Macks In Ninth

Bing Miller Hits for Circuit to Defeat Cards, 7-5.

Results of Other Exhibition Games at Training Camp.

MIAMI, Fla., March 8 (A.P.).—The world champion Philadelphia Athletics put on a characteristic finish today to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals, National League champions, and square the account at one game each, in their winter "world's series."

After his hit had scored a tie in the sixth, Edmund (Bing) Miller, veteran rightfielder, smashed a ninth-inning home run over the right field wire fence into the crowd of non-paying customers. Jimmy Foxx was on first base and the blow abruptly terminated the exhibition hostilities in favor of the Mackmen by a score of 7 to 5.

The finish furnished a thrill for a Sunday crowd. The rival champion clubs will play the third and deciding game of the series tomorrow at Fort Myers, home of the A's.

Rookies Do Pitching For Both Teams.

Both clubs relied exclusively on rookie pitchers, with regulars occupying most of the other positions. The star performance was turned in by a 19-year-old California youngster, 200-pound Hank McDonald, of Santa Monica, who came up for the trial this year from Portland, Oreg. McDonald held the cards to one hit in the last four innings and struck out five with a fine curve.

McDonald's predecessors did not fare so well. Jim Deshong, up from Harrisburg, Pa., lasted only two innings, yielding three runs, and Merrit Cain, obtained from Carrollton, Ga., was touched for the other two Cardinal runs.

Paul Derringer, star recruit from the Rochester (N.Y.) Red Wings, held the world's champions hitless and runless in the firs tthree innings. The A's tied the score against Al Stout, from Houston, scoring five runs in three frames, and won the game with Al Baker, Danville (Ill.) rookie, on the mound.

Cubs Trounce Angels, Gaining Revenge.

Avalon, Calif., March 8 (A.P.).—Whatever Rogers Hornsby said to the Cubs after they lost to Los Angeles Saturday had the effect of making them exceedingly vicious. They evened things up today by mauling the Angels, 12 to 1.

Charlie Root and Bob Smith held the opposition to five hits, one a homer by Loris Baker, while Moncrief and Green were combed for 12. Hack Wilson came up with another homer, and Gabby Hartnett got two singles and a double.

Kamm Leads Chisox To Win Over Houston.

Houston, Tex., March 8 (A.P.).—The Chicago White Sox, headed by Willis Kamm, exacted revenge for yesterday's defeat by the Houston Buffalos, winning today's exhibition, 13 to 3.

Kamm drove out a single, double, triple and added a walk in six appearances at the plate. He scored twice and drove in five runs, several of them in the fourth, when he got his double and triple. Caraway, Moore and Intelkofer held the Buffs to eight hits.

Suhr's Homer, 2 On, Wins For Pirates.

Paso Robles, Calif., March 8 (A.P.).—Gus Suhr's home run over center field drove in two other runs today to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 10-to-7 victory over the San Francisco Seals. It was the Pirates' first exhibition of the season.

The Seals forged to the front with a four-run drive of Claude Willoughby, but the Pittsburghers smashed eight hits off Henderson in their half of the sixth, Suhr's drive clinching matters.

Robins Defeat Reds In 12-Inning Opener.

Tampa, Fla., March 8 (A.P.).—The Brooklyn Robins and Cincinnati Reds struggled through twelve wild innings in their opening exhibition game today before Brooklyn slammed out three runs to get a 10-7 victory. The Robins got off ahead when Bissonette's drive in the second inning rolled under a fence and went for a home run. They held the margin until the ninth, when wild pitching gave the Reds three runs and a tie. Both teams tossed in frequent replacements, especially in the pitching line.

Yanks Hold to 2 Hits By Braves.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 8 (A.P.).—Two thousand fans turned out for the opening spring training tilt between the Boston Braves and the New York Yankees, the Braves winning, 9-7.

The Yankees made only two hits off four Boston pitchers, but jumped off to a 4-run lead in the first inning when Fred Frankhouse, in an outburst of generosity, passed seven men. The Braves tied it up in the fourth and scored 5 runs in the next three innings to take a lead the Yanks could not overcome.

Hayes' Status To Be Known Today

Infielder Must Sign or Be Dropped From Club.

Squad Is Unwieldy; May Be Divided Into 2 Groups.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 8.—Actual holdouts are fast becoming rarities in baseball. Goose Goslin and Roy Spencer, who refused to come into the fold last spring until long after they were due to report, were the only ones the Nationals had in many years. These two set a precedent which Infielder Jack Hayes threatens to follow, and if the "Alabama wild man" fails to change his mind and accept the 1931 terms offered him, he will be regarded as a holdout tomorrow morning.

As matters now stand, the Nat owner offered Hayes a salary raise over what he drew last year and then increased the figures, but not enough to suit Hayes. Following one conference, Saturday morning, Hayes was told that he could not work out with the team until he signs.

Last night, this morning, and again tonight, he and the Nat owner were in conference, but they appear to have reached an impasse.

"Gone Far as I Can," Says Griffith.

"I've gone as far as I can" Griffith stated tonight, "and if Hayes fails to accept the salary offered by tomorrow morning, when he was officially ordered to report, I shall regard him as a holdout. This means that he will have to be responsible for all his expenses coming here, and while here, and that he no longer will be considered a member of the Washington Club."

Hayes, meanwhile, is "sawing wood and saying nothing" except that all he wants is an even break and that he believes his demands are fair both to the club and to himself.

Because of the size of his squad, Manager Walter Johnson is considering a change in training routine whereby the men report in two morning shifts. Counting several seeking berths but not signed, about 40 men will be in uniform at the daily drills from tomorrow on and the Nat leader figures that this is too large a gang to handle properly.

"The ideal work," he said tonight, "is a snappy one in which the men are kept busy practically all the time they are in uniform. Standing around at intervals simply means that they lose the 'sweats' they have worked up, cool off, and, consequently, do not get the full value of their labors."

New Plan for Drill To Be Tried Tuesday.

"I have not definitely decided on the two-shift plan and will not do so until I see how we fare tomorrow. I am confident, however, that two sets of twenty men reporting will keep all much busier and will work out better, and we'll probably give the new plan a trial Tuesday unless I'm badly fooled at tomorrow's drill.

"Each spring there comes a time when mothers, or families of rookies at big league training camps receive letters reading: 'Will be home soon. The pitchers have started curving the ball.'"

Here at the Washington camp, this time will be reached by the latter part of this week. Already the flingers have been allowed to cut loose with speed and, with the regulars now on hand, curves will be in order within the next few days; in fact, some of the most advanced already are sneaking over occasional hooks.

Outfielder Harry Rice and First Baseman Joe Kuhel were the only Nationals who drifted into camp during the day, the former coming from Hot Springs and the latter from his home at Kansas City.

During the evening five more athletes showed up. Buddy Myer, Ossie Bluege, Baxter Jordon, Dave Harris and Tommy Gilligan were the arrivals. The others are expected to arrive either late tonight or early tomorrow morning.

Miami Garden Berth Taken by Pa Stribling

Miami, Fla., March 7 (A.P.).—"Pa" Stribling announced tonight he had signed an agreement with William F. Carey, president of the Madison Square Garden Corporation to be official matchmaker for the Garden in Miami next winter.

Stribling said he planned three or four boxing shows in the Miami Garden nex season, with "a big show late in February."

ONE of the most outstanding lifting feats on record was made when Frank Olender lifted over four times his own weight with only one finger. Olender only weighs 163 pounds. This record-breaking lift can more readily be appreciated when one remembers that the best Louis Cyr, one of the most famous strong men who ever lived, could do with one finger was 545 pounds.

Down in Texas they say that Charlie Lockhart is all brains, and they're not far from right. What Charlie lacks physically he has more than made up for mentally. As shown by his recent election as State treasurer, he is popular throughout the State of Texas. A problem that is causing Lockhart no little worry is the answering of "fan mail." This, he says, ranges all the way from marriage proposals to requests from mothers as to how children should be raised.

East Holds Slight Edge in Comparison Of Three Big Collegiate Track Meets

Official Recognition Sought for Three World Records.

By HERBERT W. BARKER.

NEW YORK, March 8 (A.P.).—The biggest intercollegiate track program of the indoor season had placed three new world's records on the books today, granting that official recognition is forthcoming.

More than 600 athletes in the East, Midwest and South joined in an assault on time and distance in three spectacular meets last night—the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. Championships at New York; the Western Conference titular games at Madison, Wis., and the Southern Conference championship meet at Chapel Hill, N. C.

Out of this heavy attack came a new indoor mark for the 1-mile relay, 3 minutes 17 8-10 seconds, set by a quartet of Penn quarter-milers at New York; a 7 4-10-second record-breaking performance by Lee Sentman, of Illinois, in the 60-yard hurdles at Madison, and a new indoor pole vault mark from a dirt floor take-off of 13 feet 9¼ inches, set at Madison by Verne McDermott, of Illinois.

Indoor Record Twice Tied.

The world's indoor record of 6 2-10 seconds for 60 yards was twice tied. Eddie Tolan, of Michigan, did it in the Big Ten meet, and Bill McCormick, of Notre Dame, in a fourth major track event of the night in the Central Intercollegiate A. A. games at South Bend.

Smashed records were the exception rather than the rule. All told six meet records fell at New York; six at Chapel Hill and four at Madison.

Times and distances for the Southern Conference championships were well behind those in both the I. C. 4A and the Big Ten meets, and, ignoring the different conditions under which the titular games were run, the East had a slight edge over the Big Ten in performances. A comparison of times and distances shows the East holding the edge in four events and the Big Ten in three.

A coincidence was that all three team titles were won by wide margins. Penn romped away from the field in the I. C. 4A games; Michigan easily won at Madison, and North Carolina was not extended at Chapel Hill.

Sarazen and Farrell Win, Breaking Records at Miami

MIAMI, Fla., March 8 (A.P.).—Dapper little Gene Sarazen whizzed around the Miami Country Club course today with a record-smashing eighteen-hole 65 as he and Johnny Farrell swamped their opponents, 6 and 5, in the opening 36-hole play of the $5,000 International four-ball matches. Sarazen and Farrell also set a new record of 62 as they defeated Willie Klein and Tom Kerrigan.

The Sarazen-Farrell combination, however, were not the long score winners of the day. The perennial Walter Hagen and Horton Smith, who strode across American courses a year or so ago to win most of the golfing money of the year, marked up a 7 and 6 victory in a scheduled 36-hole match as they sent down Bob Randall and Bob Burns.

A third long score gave Denny Shute and Tony Manero a 7-and-5 win over Bill Burke and Jock Collins.

Johnny Golden, fresh from his Agua Caliente conquest over George Von Elm, paired with Ed Dudley only to go down to a 4-and-2 defeat at the hands of Charley Guest and George Christ.

Clarence Gamber, youthful co-sharer of top honors in the 1930 tournament with Cyril Walker, paired with Walker today in defense of their crown to win, 2 and 1, from Danny Williams and John Watson.

Jack Thompson and John Kinder went into the next 36-hole round by a 2-and-1 victory over the veteran Al Espinosa and Craig Wood. Joe Kirkwood, paired with "Lighthorse" Harry Cooper, went down, 2 and 1, before Wild Bill Mehlhorn and Frank Walsh, Chicago veteran.

Joe Turnesa fell down with Henri Cuici as they took a 3 and 2 beating from the bespectacled Willie MacFarlane and Whiffy Cox, Brooklyn blusterer.

The defending champions, Gamber and Walker, will meet Manero and Shute in tomorrow's 36-hole quarter-finals.

Sarazen and Farrell will offer their bid against that of Thompson and Kinder, while the Hagen-Smith combine will stroke the course with Mehlhorn and Walsh. The other quarter-final match will be MacFarlane and Cox against Guest and Christ.

Maryland Blue Law Disturbs Club Owner

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 8.—Unless Sunday baseball is legalized in Maryland, this city, and not Hagerstown, in all probability will become a member of the Middle Atlantic League, it became known here today after owner Joe Cambria, of the Hagerstown Club, held a conference with local moguls. Cambria owned the Hagerstown Club in the Blue Ridge League last season and has secured a Middle Atlantic League franchise for 1931. He stated during the conference today that he favored Martinsburg if he is banned from playing on Sunday in Hagerstown.

About 150 students from Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., will go on a spring tour to Havana.

Simpson, Leg Injured, Wins in New Zealand

Christchurch, New Zealand, March 8 (A.P.).—Despite the handicap of a strained tendon, George Simpson, former Ohio State flier, won the 75-yard scratch event of an athletic program at Lancaster Park, here today. He ran the distance in 7 2-5 seconds to beat two native runners, Jenkins and Leadbetter.

Rufus Kiser, Pacific Coast middle distance runner, finished second to Bayne, of New Zealand in a 4:20 gale. Harlow Rothert, giant weight man from Stanford, easily won the shot put with a heave of 50 feet 6¼ inches.

A big old willow a squarely in the middle of a Texas highway soon to be paved, will be spared as a surveyor's landmark.

Battles for A. A. U. Titles Start at Tech High Gym With Three-Game Program

St. Martin's to Play Whirlwinds; Game for DeMolay.

POST BASKET BALL TOURNAMENT SCHEDULE

TONIGHT.
(Tech High Gym).
7:30 p. m.—Crescents vs. Nativity (145-pound class, first round).
8:30 p. m.—De Molay vs. Red Stars (unlimited class, preliminary round).
9:30 p. m.—St. Martin's vs. Eastern Whirlwinds (unlimited class, first round).

TOMORROW NIGHT.
(Tech High Gym).
7:30 p. m.—Trinity vs. Potomac Boat Club (unlimited class, first round).
8:30 p. m.—Mount Vernon vs. Y. M. C. A. (unlimited class, first round).
9:30 p. m.—Mercury vs. Palace—D. G. S. (unlimited class, preliminary round).

THE crowning event of the basketball season in the District and vicinity—The Washington Post's fifth annual A. A. U. basket ball championship tournament—starts tonight at the Tech High Gymnasium, Third and T streets northeast. At 7:30 o'clock, Julius I. Peyser, prominent Washington lawyer and National A. A. U. official, will toss up the ball that will send the Crescent and Nativity teams, of the 145-pound class, into a whirlwind of action—the first game of more than 125 contests which will be necessary to determine the A. A. U. champions in the seven divisions. The entry list of 97 teams set a new record for A. A. U. sectional tournaments.

Two unlimited battles will round out the first night's program. Both are promising of furious action from start to finish. The Washington De Molay five, winner of the Intercity League, with a record of 12 victories and 3 defeats, will face the Red Stars at 8:30 o'clock to be followed by a clash of the St. Martin's and Eastern Whirlwinds, both prominent Capital combinations, at 9:30 o'clock.

Boys Club Band To Perform.

District A. A. U. officials, in cooperation with members of The Post's sport staff, have completed all arrangements for the tournament. The Boys Club Band will be on hand to provide entertainment during the intermissions. Frank DeAngelo will again handle the scoreboard, assuring the spectators an accurate point-by-point score at all times.

As has been the case at the four other Post tournaments, the nominal admission fee of 25 cents will be charged for each night's program of the tournament.

The same high class of officiating which has always marked A. A. U. tournament games in this section is assured this year with the Mitchell brothers, Joe and Orrel, and Tommy Ford in charge. This trio has handled nearly 400 A. A. U. contests in the past four years without a protest being registered.

Close Struggles Expected.

There is every indication that tonight's three contests will develop into the kind of struggles which are bound to result from competition in which one defeat eliminates a team. There can be no loafing and close followers of amateur basket ball here say that tonight's rivals are evenly matched.

Both the Crescent and Nativity fives have enjoyed successful seasons, each having spent an active winter on the courts. The Crescents, who have competed in two previous tourneys, will depend on the sharp shooting of Henry Weigel, former Tech star, and their fast-passing game.

Nativity has been showing improvement as the season has progressed. The team includes no outstanding players, but works well together.

Sinclair Brothers Lead De Molay.

The Sinclair brothers, prominent in the success of De Molay this season, will bear the hopes of the young Masons tonight. Both are fast players, and each boasts a keen scoring eye. Although De Molay has not figured as prominently in independent games hereabouts, as have some of the other tournament quintets, basket ball followers expect the club to surprise in the championship games.

The Red Stars are considered a match for the DeMolays. They include in their line-up Joe Gahan, Bob Maxwell, Bill Woodward and several other well-known players.

Virtually the same players who have carried the St. Martin's colors in other tournaments will take the floor against the Eastern Whirlwinds. These are Gene Heiss, the Harrington brothers, Lawrence Denny, John Mealy, Charlie Zimmerli, Ernie McFarland, Floyd Barnard, Stanley Hunt and Gene Augusterfer.

The Eastern Whirlwinds are composed mostly of former Eastern High stars. Boys who played under Coach Guyon are Moeller, Bushong, the Essex brothers, Chapple and Zambreney.

Three unlimited games are on the schedule tomorrow night, with the all-Southwest battle between Mercury and Palace-D. G. S. appearing to be the stand-out game. This contest is scheduled at 9:30 o'clock. The crack Mount Vernon five will face the Y. M. C. A. quintet at 8:30 o'clock, and the Trinity and Potomac Boat Club will meet at 7:30 o'clock.

SIX BOX SEATS PRIZE

Fan Selects Nats; Cites 7 Reasons

THE Washington Ball Club is ten games stronger than last year, enough to beat out the Athletics for the pennant, states Bryan Coe, of 103 Sixth street northeast, who cites seven reasons for his beliefs.

In his letter to the "Baseball Editor" of The Post, Mr. Coe confidently asserts that Crowder, Brown and Hadley represent 50 victories; Marberry, Jones and Liska 40, leaving a paltry 4 for Burke and Fischer. He counts on these 104 victories to win the flag for the Nats.

The winner of The Post's contest will be presented with a block of six box seats to the opening game with the Nats and the Athletics here April 14. Merely state in an article of not more than 250 words, your opinion of the Nats' 1931 prospects and the probable make-up of the team. Address your letters to The Post's "Baseball Editor" before the close of the contest April 1.

Briefly, Mr. Coe bases his belief on the ability of Manager Johnson; the presence of the efficient Harry Rice to replace the veteran Sam Rice in August; the confidence born of last year's successful season; the smoothness, balance and power in all departments; the fire of youth and the poise of experience in proper proportion; excellent reserves and fine pinch-hitters in Harris and Hargrave, and the overconfidence of the Athletics who boast only two capable pitchers.

Do you agree with Mr. Coe? Write on only one side of the paper.

Johnson's Condition "Extremely Critical"

St. Louis, March 8 (A.P.).—The condition of Ban Johnson, former president of the American League, remained extremely critical tonight. Attendants at St. John's Hospital, where he is a patient, said there had been no appreciable change in the veteran baseball leader's condition during the day.

Membership of Dixie League Yet Uncertain

Columbus, Ga., March 8 (A.P.).—The Dixie Association was definitely nominated for a place in the South's baseball pictture for this summer here today, but the personnel of the league remains undetermined.

R. J. Spiller, business manager of the Atlanta Crakers and interested in Columbus, said seven of the ten cities represented had agreed to join the circuit, but the other three were uncertain and were given until next Sunday to decide.

In order not to dim baseball enthusiasm in the three cities, Spiller refused to name the seven already ready to enter, or the remaining three.

The cities represented were Macon, Columbus and Albany, in Gorgia; Selma, Anniston and Montgomery, in Alabama; Tampa, Jacksonville and Pensacola, in Florida, and Jackson, Miss.

Pair of Laurel Fives Bow to Baltimoreans

Special to The Washington Post.

Laurel, Md., March 8.—Laurel lightweights took an overtime game from the Sokol All-Stars, of Baltimore, by a score of 28 to 27 here today. The score at the end of the regulation time was 23 to 23. In other games, Sokol Athletic Club defeated Laurel Guards, 21 to 4, and Sokol downed Laurel Eagles, 29 to 22.

Georgia Tech Lists 11 Lacrosse Contests

Atlanta, March 8 (A.P.).—The Georgia Tech lacrosse team will open its 1931 schedule of six meets with its engagement against the University of Virginia in Charlottesville, Va., April 16. Two other encounters, with the Navy and St. John's, both at Annapolis, will be included in the opening road trip.

The complete schedule:

Boxing Bill Signed By West Va. GoGvernor

Charleston, W. Va., March 8 (A.P.).—Gov. William G. Conley today announced that he last night signed a bill passed by the current legislature to legalize boxing in West Virginia. The measure will become law in 90 days.

The bill, considered by four successive sessions of the Legislature, creates a three-man boxing commission, named by the governor, to govern wrestling and boxing bouts in the State. It limits boxing bouts to twelve three-minute rounds.

DOOLY MITCHELL IS BEATEN IN MARYLAND TENNIS

Keiles Rallies To Defeat D.C. Ace

Buchanan Eliminated in Quarter-Final Match.

Mitchell - Buchanan Survive in Baltimore Doubles.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 8.—The Maryland State indoor singles and doubles tennis championship tournament advanced nearer to the finals this afternoon on the courts of the Fifth Regiment Armory.

The feature match of the day was the semifinal round in the upper bracket played between Dooly Mitchell and Alex Keiles, the latter after conceding the first set to Mitchell by the score of 6—2, won the next two handily by scres of 6—4, 6—4. Mitchell, who was seeded No. 1, is the second ranking player in the recent rankings of the Middle Atlantic Lawn Tennis Association for 1930, which ranking he also held for 1929.

Alex Keiles, who was seeded No. 4, is the tenth ranking player in the recent rankings of the Middle Atlantic Lawn Tennis Association for 1930. He has a string of victories to his credit.

He will meet the winner of the Elmer Rudy and Edward LeFleur match, who will play their semifinal round Thursday evening at 7 o'clock Rudy defeated William this afternoon in the quarter finals, 6—4, 6—4. Buchanan, of Washington, D. C., in —St. John's Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

ST. JOHN'S PARK begins its second meeting of two weeks today, which will end on Saturday, March 28, leading up to within one day of the opening of the Maryland racing season at Bowie on March 31, the following Tuesday.

The St. John's Handicap, 6 furlongs, features the card. The fields are large, but the class ordinary. PROMETHEUS may wake to win this $1,000 purse. In his last start, which was at Miami, the W. R. Padgett colt was beaten by The Gen by a nose and on that day was 1 to 2. GRACIOUS GIFT, regarded as the contender today, was third, but five lengths back. BLACK WATCH should be an easy third, as he appears much the best on recent racing, throwing out his last start.

FIRST RACE—SANDY HATCH, which seems returning to good form after a long line of failures, is selected in the first race. LITTLE IMP will be the contender, and is dangerous. HOBCAW may get third money.

SECOND RACE—RONALD GREY, a failure at Hialeah, is likely to improve, for he can do better. He is picked to take the second race and will pay long odds. IGNITE should be the contender.

THIRD RACE—NEALON KAY seems much the best in the third race at a mile. VOYAGE is a possibility and should be the contender.

FIFTH RACE—The fifth is a claiming handicap at six furlongs, with a top-heavy field of platers. MINERALOGIST, which has run disappointingly in his last three starts at Hialeah, may benefit by the change of track, and is selected to win. AMSTERDAM should be the contender.

SIXTH RACE—DR. PARRISH stands out in the sixth race, a 5-furlong dash. This old campaigner has won his last two starts at Miami, and beat better fields than this. PROMETHEUS, which is entered in the feature, also appears in the entries list of the sixth race, and if he starts in the latter, he should be the contender.

SEVENTH RACE—MADDER looks like the winner of the seventh race. She ran with better horses at Hialeah, and beat a good field in Maryland last fall. This is the cheapest company with which she has run.

SAYS PEGLER

Corbett in the Garden and Sullivan in a handball court above a saloon.

At that time the descriptions of Sullivan were full of warning. He was fat and wheezy, the experts said, but the opinion running through the news was that Corbett, though more healthy, was too light and delicate to "do" him, "do" being the forerunner of the modern verb to shellack. A few days later, though, the copy from New Orleans bespoke confidence for Sullivan. He was fat no longer and his wind was now improved.

Tact Wins Cheers for Corbett

A week or so after the fight the boys met again in New York, boxing an exhibition with the big gloves in the old Garden before 5,000 customers at about $5 per head for Sullivan's benefit. The crowd was emotional over Sullivan and hostile to Corbett, but Sullivan made a speech asking them to give their loyalty to the new champion and Corbett, when his turn came, was generous to John. He won a few rounds of cheers for himself by his tactful address.

I gather that Sullivan had been swimming in wine since his defeat, for the descriptions of the benefit bout pictured him as bloated, feeble and clumsy. Four years later, at Carson City, when Corbett was about to lose the title to Fitzsimmons, Sullivan, now old and enormously fat and roaring drunk, stumbled up through the ropes, steadied himself with a ringpost and bawled an incoherent challenge to the winner.

One of the experts, writing from the ringside, described him as a pitiful and disgusting spectacle, but, by an odd quirk, another man states that this expert himself was unconscious in a saloon at the time, insisting that he ghosted the expert's description of the drunken John L.

In 1892, when Corbett fought Sullivan, the residents of some streets in New York City were complaining to the administration because new, electric trolley or broomstick cars gave off blue spits of flame and clattered horribly due to their tremendous speed, disturbing the quiet of the night time which was made for the repose of decent people. They wanted the horse cars back and the soothing clop-clop of the nags.

There were no accounts of any intercollegiate football games, and racing is the only sport which seems to have been covered at great length and consistently. In 1892, between sport events, the sport experts vanished from the papers and, I suppose, from the pay rolls, a disquieting thought, which, perhaps, I should not stress. It might promote the idea that sport writing is a nonessential occupation.

UP TRIUMPHS IN $10,000 DERBY

Seth's Pride Barely Defeated in Agua Caliente Test.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, March 8 (A.P.).—Up, Mrs. James N. Crofton's chestnut colt by High Cloud—Idleness, captured the Agua Caliente Derby, $10,000 added money stake for 3-year-olds, which headlined the racing program here today. Up galloped the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:46.60, to win by a half-length over Seth's Pride. Uncle Henry was third.

A field of nine paraded to the post, as Briar Hawk, the hope of G. Watkins and B. J. Durnell, declined the issue at the last minute.

When the break came, Jockey J. Pollard had Up away like a shot and took command in the first sixteenth. From then on the Crofton colt was not to be headed and was never in danger until the last few strides netted him first money. Uncle Henry was one of the forward contenders all the way, but lacked the stretch drive to bring him up to the leaders. Schooner, racing for M. L. Allen and R. F. Cloud, was installed the overnight favorite, but while always close, was never dangerous and finished a poor fourth.

MORRISON PRAISES HALF-HOLIDAY LAW AS FORWARD STEP

Federation of Labor Official Sees Shorter Working Hours in Future.

DOLE GIVEN BRITONS APPROVED IN TALK

Secretary Informs Audience at Church Care for Life Is Unions' Aim.

Speaking on "The Ideals of Labor" at a meeting of the adult discussion group of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church yesterday morning, Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, praised Congress and President Hoover for legislating and putting into effect the Saturday half holiday for Government employes, and predicted that even shorter working hours would eventually be established.

Addressing himself particularly to the problem of unemployment, he said: "If this country and other countries do not arrange and put into effect a plan that will give people work, then we must have unemployment insurance. The use of machines has taken the trades of 2,000,000 skilled workers who will never secure future employment unless they secure it through a shorter work day and a shorter work week."

Mr. Morrison went on to explain how the hours of labor had been reduced from 60 a week to $40 a week in 34 years, and then added: "If the world's work can be done by machinery in two hours a day, why should the workers work more than two hours a day?" A further reduction in the hours of labor is inevitable, he said, but the benefits should be distributed equitably.

English Dole Upheld.

While discussing unemployment insurance, Mr. Morrison referred to the English dole, which, he said, "Is not a dole, because the worker pays part, the employer pays part, and the public pays part.

A good many people declare that when a man receives unemployment insurance it destroys his self-respect and independence. But which do you think will destroy it to a greater extent, to receive a stipulated amount per week or to become a charge on charity?

Society should be so organized that people will be taken care of in their old age, because of the work they have done. Industry should be so organized that every man and woman who wants work can secure it. All laboring people would be more contented if they knew they would be able to secure employment, and an old age pension when they are not able to work.

Life Care Sought.

The American Federation of Labor is working to accomplish that purpose, so that society shall be so organized that it will take care of people from the cradle to the grave. The public at large must assist in bringing about a condition of society that will give everybody employment."

During the term of President Coolidge, Mr. Morrison said he and the late Samuel Gompers, then president of the American Federation of Labor, endeavored to have Mr. Coolidge take some action, or recommend that Congress take some action, to organize properly industry to prevent unemployment. "But Mr. Coolidge declined to do so," said Mr. Morrison, "saying he thought industry must solve that problem itself."

Mr. Morrison cited many improvements in working conditions that had been effected by organizations of labor, and said that the Government, in giving its employes a year-round Saturday half holiday had placed itself in line with all fair employers of labor.

Santo Domingo Lawyer Is Killed at Reception

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, March 8 (A.P.).—Manuel De Jesus Gmez, an attorney and member of the land tribunal, was shot to death last night at a reception in the home of John Abbes, Argentine Consul, by Marino Cestero, assistant to the secretary to the president.

The slain official was president of the Union Club and was consul for Czechoslovakia. He was buried today with military honors.

Boy, 6, Bitten by Dog.

While playing in an alley in the rear of his home yesterday afternoon, Stanley Ebert, 6, of 1105 Jefferson street northwest, was attacked and bitten above his left eye by a large dog. He was taken to Emergency Hospital, where physicians said his condition was not serious and he was allowed to return home.

Aircraft League Opens Season Soon

Indoor and Outdoor Meetings Planned by Gen. M. M. Patrick.

The spring season of the District of Columbia Model Aircraft League will open Saturday, when an outdoor meet will be held at the Stuart Junior High School, according to plans announced yesterday by the advisory board, of which Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick is chairman.

During this month and next there will be two meets a month, indoor and outdoor, in the program arranged under auspices of the Community Center Department.

Events in April will include demonstration of "true scale" models in the United States National Museum, from April 15 to April 20. A kite flying contest will be held in Anacostia Park on Wednesday, April 8. Both contests are open to all boys in Washington.

Suspension Meted Out to Policeman

Thomas D. Atkinson Taken Off Duty as Superior Awaits Report.

Policeman Thomas D. Atkinson, of the First Precinct, yesterday was suspended from duty by Capt. Burke, his commanding officer, pending a report by Inspector Oscar J. Letterman, who accompanied Atkinson to the precinct about 1:50 yesterday morning.

The policeman was not arrested, Capt. Burke said, and no formal charges have yet been placed against him. He said that Atkinson was suspended for "conduct unbecoming an officer." The policeman was off duty when Inspector Letterman met him in the vicinity of Ninth and G streets early yesterday morning and asked him to go with him to the station house, Capt. Burke said.

Atkinson has ben in the service about three years, and has had a good record during the two years Burke has bene in command of the First Precinct, the precinct commander said.

Neighbor Saves Woman From Gas

Mrs. Jane Randall, 81, Is Found Overcome in Kitchen of Home.

Overcome by gas escaping from an open jet in the kitchen of her apartment at 2106 F stret northwest, Mrs. Jane Randall, 81 years old, was in a serious condition last night at Emergency Hospital.

Mrs. Randhall was discovered unconscious in a chair in the sitting room of her apartment by Mrs. T. M. Smiley, who lives in an adjoining apartment. Smelling gas, Mrs. Smiley entered the Randall apartment with a key.

She notified Emergency Hospital. Police who investigated said the jet was obviously left open by accident.

Policeman, Off Duty, Nabs Accused Driver After Chase

Although he was off duty yesterday, Policeman Carl R. Burr, of the Fifth Precinct, proved that he was capable of getting on the job without delay when the occasion demanded.

A man, giving his name as Albert C. Stellern, 26 years old, and his occupation as a sailor on the receiving ship Reina Mercedes at Annapolis, drove a car into a parked automobile on Rhode Island avenue, near Mills avenue northeast, about 6:30 o'clock yesterday evening, according to Policeman Burr, who was parked nearby in front of his home. The policeman sped after the car and forced the driver to the curb a few minutes later.

Stellern was charged at the Twelfth Precinct with leaving the scene after an accident. The car that he is Richard Rollinson, of 2103 Rhode Island avenue northeast, according to the report at the Twelfth Precinct.

Rain Here Called $1,000,000 Relief

Heavy Downpours, Snow Visit Seaboard to Florida; Forecast Is Fair.

Washington had one of those "million-dollar rains" early yesterday, according to Forecaster Charles L. Mitchell, of the United States Weather Bureau. He said .61 of an inch that fell in this section is just what Mr. Hoover has been looking for in the way of drought relief.

Local rains reduced the deficiency of precipitation in this area since January 1 from 4.23 inches to 3.62, according to official computation. They transformed a deficiency of .31 of an inch for the month of March to a surplus of .30.

The rain was the most thorough this section has received in a year. Mr. Mitchell, however, saw little prospect of any more in the near future. Fair and slightly colder weather was forecast for today. The mercury will hover around 32 degrees.

$530 in Jewels Stolen From Car, Police Told

Mrs. Mary E. Laudick, of 3711 Ingomar street northwest, yesterday reported to police that jewelry valued at $530 was stolen from her automobile while it was parked on a downtown street last Wednesday.

The jewelry, which consisted of a necklace, a solitaire ring set in platinum and surrounded by seven sapphires, and a ring with an antique setting, was in a small envelope in the rear of her car, she said.

Man Struck by Auto, Robbed of Watch, $15

James D. Fortune, colored, 47, of Second street near V street northwest, reported to police that while attempting to cross the street at Ninth street and Rhode Island avenue northeast early yesterday he was struck and knocked down by an automobile, which failed to stop.

While lying unconscious in the street, he declared, he was robbed of a watch valued at $15 and a wallet containing nine $1 bills. He was treated at his home for lacerations to his right leg and possible fracture of the ribs.

Sacred Pageant Given at Temple

Tickets Good for Coal, Milk and Other Necessities Go to Jobless.

Presented in form of a chautauqua talk and stereopticon lecture, a sacred pageant was given last night in the New Masonic Temple, Tenth and U streets northwest, by the Rev. J. Anthony Williams, a part of a series of 60 presentations which aim to give a visual exhibit of the entire biblical history. A mass meeting was arranged for the purpose jointly by the Institutional Union Mission, headed by the Rev. J. N. Beaman, and the Cosmopolitan Baptist Church, the Rev. S. P. W. Drew, pastor.

Through instrumentality of the White Cross Society, tickets were issued free to unemployed, to provide milk, coal and other necessities. Dr. Drew, speaking on the progress of the Negro here, eulogized W. H. Jackson, S. S. Johnson, Charles E. Ford and the late John W. Lewis.

Donations of coal were made by the Griffith Consumers Co., Agnew Co., W. H. Cooper, John T. Risher, C. T. Taylor and Isaac Cunningham; bread by the Corby, Ottenberg, Home and Dorsch bakeries; sugar by the John P. Wilkins Co.; meat by the New York Wholesale Distributors; milk by Thompson's Dairy.

Veterans Urged to Ask Bonus Loans at Home

Commenting upon the fact that some veterans are still migrating to Washington under the misapprehension that they can expedite loans on their certificates by so doing, Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, again yesterday emphasized the fact that it is greatly to the advantage of the veterans to apply for these loans in their own communities.

If an original loan is being made, they should apply to the nearest regional office, or to their own bank, but if a previous loan has been made at a bank and the note has been sent in to central office of the Bureau in Washington, for redemption, application for reloan should be made by the veteran by mail.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

TREATING MR. CAPONE ROUGH.

"Al Capone brought into court on charge of vagrancy."—News item.

"WELL, I know Capone couldn't go on all the rest of his life without facing some serious charge," declared Elmer Twitchell. "It ought to be a lesson to him. If that doesn't make him change his ways the police will go a step further and arrest him on some graver accusation, like riding a bicycle without sounding his bell!

* * * *

"Of course, I think perhaps the authorities were a little severe, dragging Al into court on a charge like vagrancy, all things considered. They could have charged him with something like picking flowers in a public park or something as a starter, and sort of worked up to something more serious in case he didn't reform.

* * * *

"Vagrancy is a hard thing to accuse any alleged gang leader of. It's very humiliating and a man can't live it down very easily. I understand Capone is pretty hot about it. His lawyer thinks he should have been accused of playing golf on Sunday, or something of that nature.

* * * *

"CAPONE got his trial continued and when it comes up a way may be found to make it less degrading. If the prosecutor can't see his way clear to change the charge to playing golf on Sunday maybe he can charge him with something like shooting songbirds, smoking in a theater or keeping a sow within the city limits without a permit.

* * * *

I'm for a compromise anyhow. We ought to be more tolerant of fellows like Al Capone. They mean well. If we treat them too harshly we will break their spirit. It's a terrible thing to see a leader like Al with his spirit broken. I saw once once, and I will never forget it. The poor fellow was a big, strong, forceful beer runner before he was arrested. Even then it would have been all right if the authorities had considered his feelings and placed some mild charge against him. But they didn't. They dragged him into court and openly accused him of playing the piano in his apartment after midnight.

* * * *

Here Elmer broke down and sobbed bitterly.

AS this department understands him, Mr. Raskob wants the Democratic party to have a candidate it can "dunk."

REV. F. VURPILLOT, OF ST. JOHN'S, GETS INSIGNIA OF PARIS

French Pastor Third Person in U. S. to Have Order Conferred on Him.

DEGREE GIVES CLERIC TITLE OF DOCTOR

Diploma Presented by Rev. Dr. J. A. Maynard, of New York Church.

The Rev. Florian Vurpillot, pastor of the French congregation of St. John's Church, received the diploma of docteur en theologie, honoris causa, from the Faculte de Theologie Protestante of Paris at a service yesterday afternoon. The distinction has been conferred on only three other persons in the United States.

The diploma and accompanying insignia was presented by the Rev. Dr. J. A. Maynard, rector of the French Episcopal Church of St. Esprit in New York. Dr. Maynard also preached a sermon in which he extolled George Washington as having exemplified the spirit of Lent at Valley Forge.

Dr. Maynard added the opinion that Valley Forge was the most remarkable period since the Crucifixion in the history of the world. Both events, he observed, marked the beginning of new and significant eras.

Washington Called Huguenot.

The French minister called special attention to the fact that Washington was of French Huguenot descent. His human and most ingratiating qualities were reflected by the Huguenot blood in his veins, Dr. Maynard asserted.

Dr. Maynard based his sermon on the four temptations of Christ. He showed that Christ finally realized all the objectives to which He had been tempted through His own labors.

Declaring that Christ did not take the way of compromise, Dr. Maynard expressed opinion that the church too often chooses this easier and more obvious path. He criticized the church for frequently putting the idea of social service first and of trying to utilize its power in thrusting things upon people.

Social service, he granted, has its place, but it should not come first. The power of God, he said, is the only kind that the church should recognize.

Speaking of Lent, Dr. Maynard averred that the United States during the war observed the demands of Lent by sacrifice, and added that this country is now suffering the lack of much to which it has been accustomed.

At Valley Forge, Washington demonstrated the spirit of Lent by solitude, prayer and consecration, the preacher asserted, adding that this event was a clear illustration of the fact that right will triumph.

Insignia Known as Epitoga.

The insignia received by Dr. Vurpillot is known as an epitoga. It is a kind of stole worn on the left shoulder, purple in color, and has three bands of ermine, representing the degrees of Bachelor of Arts, Master of Arts and the one bestowed yesterday, Doctor of Theology.

Dr. Vurpillot was graduated from the Faculte de Theologie Protestant of Paris, and Dr. Maynard is special representative in this country of the faculty of the institution.

Religion Gains Power, Dr. Rasmussen Says

Pastor Refutes Charges That Church Shows Signs of Decline.

REV. CARL C. RASMUSSEN.

Paraphrasing the words of Mark Twain, the report of the decline of the Church and the paralysis of religion is "very much exaggerated," for the influence of religion and the achievements of the Church are enormous, declared the Rev. Dr. Carl C. Rasmussen in her sermon yesterday morning at Luther Place Memorial Church, at Thomas Circle, which follows:

One is constantly being confronted with the cry—in many quarters none too reluctant—of those who herald the paralysis of religion, the failure of the Church, the decline of Protestantism, and like judgments. Varying explanations are given why religion is losing face.

Science has banished God and with Him, the creeds of the Church. Intellectual obscurantists have disgusted the temper of the age.

Religion Under Stress.

Religion has shown itself impotent in the face of great social evils, like war, poverty, greed, industrial injustice and race conflict.

Or religion has been too meddlesome, "putting over" on an unwilling age certain despised reforms, like prohibition, thereby calling down upon itself widespread desertions.

This should be said in reply:

The Church has within herself the power for new triumphs whenever she is willing to use it. In this age, as in others, the Church can be invincible if she wants to.

Peril From Within.

The real peril to the Church in any age is not hostility from without. Ages of sternest hostility have raised the Church to its noblest heights and multiplied its influence. Those who are most solicitous for the Church's continued effectiveness might perhaps rejoice if, in times of flabby comfort, the adherents of the Church were challenged to their best by the rise of some real perils, scaring off the insincere and revealing the true heroism of Christ-filled lives.

The real peril to the power of the Church is within her own walls. It is the lethargy of those who feel that God is in His heavens and all is well with the cause. It is the softness which has laid hold of the spiritual fiber of Christians who see nothing at which to be alarmed. It is the easy-going absenteeism of the soldier who sees no reason why he should stick heroically to his post, when he can descry no threatening foe.

It is not strange if supineness and thoughtless preoccupation with other matters have given rise to the gloomy prophecies which announce the impending collapse of the Church.

But it is heartening to see signs of a widespread awakening. From many and discreet sources come the messengers of a deepening interest in religion. There is the stirring of life where recently men saw only dead bones. There is a new rallying among hosts that had been at ease, without thought of desertion; it was only that they had failed to see how the issue of the cause was at stake. There are signs of an increasing sway of the spirit.

It is heartening, too, to see that wherever the loyalty of the followers of Jesus Christ is in conspicuous evidence, there is a great responsiveness on the part of many who had been thought indifferent to the call of religion. There is the hopeful responsiveness of a wistfulness that could not be satisfied with the form of religion out of which the life of reality had faded.

The call of the hour is for loyalty. There is new meaning to us in the challenge, "Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father who is in heaven."

Using the text Matthew v:16, this is the first of a series of five special sermons on the general theme, "Am I Fair With God?" to be delivered on the Sunday mornings from now till Easter. The remaining subjects will deal with the inquiry am I fair with God in obedience to His great commission; in sharing of my substance; in the cultivation of the soul, and in my representation of the risen Christ?

NEW "STRONG MAN" ASTONISHES CHILE

Ruiz, Premier and Minister of Finance, Marvel for Speedy Work.

HAS ECONOMY PROGRAM

Santiago, Chile, March 8 (A.P.).—A new "strong man" of Chile has been uncovered by President Carlos Ibanez through his appointment of Carlos Castro Ruiz as premier and minister of finance.

Castro Ruiz, trained in foreign banking and diplomatic circles, has taken hold of the dual position with an enthusiasm and speed which has amazed a country used to slower methods.

The new premier is only 44 years old and has been in office only since January 9. But in that time he has outlined a strict economy program; has begun a vigorous campaign against rumor mongers in stock exchange, market and security circles, and has issued statements disproving false reports about the condition of local banks.

Attracts Foreign Firms.

He also has announced plans of numerous foreign firms to establish plants in Chile, and in general has given to the public a definite idea of what the government plans to do this year.

Often in the past Chileans, as well as foreigners, have almost forgotten that Chile had a premier. But Castro Ruiz apparently expects to make full use of his place as head of the cabinet not only in name but in action.

It fell to his lot to announce completion in New York of arrangements for financing the new huge government - producer nitrate combine known as Cosach, formed to rejuvenate the Chilean natural nitrate industry, and work with European synthetic producers in stabilization of world markets.

Program Is Flexible.

The new premier's outline of government policy explains that it will be sufficiently flexible to care for any economic emergency. In addition Castro Ruiz will insist that the various government departments hold their expenditures to necessities.

His predecessor, Julio Philippi, framed economy budgets for 1931 and Castro Ruiz says he will see that they are executed as planned. In this he has the full support of the president.

Woman Treated for Poisoning.

After swallowing a quantity of poison by mistake for medicine yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Mary Graves, 52 years old, of W street near Eleventh street southeast, was given first-aid treatment by members of the Fire Rescue Squad, who were summoned by members of her family. She was examined by a physician from Casualty Hospital, who pronounced her condition not serious.
